'Sex harass' woman sent nude emails

A FEMALE hospital worker has dropped a claim against bosses for sexual harassment after admitting sending NAKED emails to her colleagues.

Former IT analyst Sarah Persad had accused workmates of making lewd remarks and 'sexual invitations' while branding her 'gobby and flirty'.

But Mrs Persad, 39, yesterday withdrew her £70,000 suit after telling an employment tribunal how she'd sent 'titillating' snaps of nude women to staff at Benenden Hospital Trust in Cranbrook, Kent – including the male employee she claimed harassed her.

The hospital is now pursuing Mrs Persad for substantial costs which they incurred in defending the claims.

Lawyers acting on behalf of the trust said in a statement, "Mrs Persad sent a number of emails containing images of naked women to her male colleagues".

Jack in the box

CORRIED IN: Co-stars carry Bill in to church for service, followed by Liz (right)

STARS of Coronation Street yesterday gathered to pay their respects to the late Bill Tarmey who played the soap's Jack Duckworth for three decades.

The actor became one of TV's most recognisable faces as the long-suffering husband to nagging battleaxe Vera, played by Liz Dawn.

Their endearing on-screen partnership was one of the most popular in soap history and gave the ITV1 show some of its most funny and memorable moments.

Manchester-born Bill died at his holiday home in Tenerife on November 9, aged 71.

Around 700 people packed into the Albion United Reformed Church in Ashton-under-Lyne for his funeral service, joining his wife of 50 years, All, and the couple's two children, Carl and Sara, to say a final goodbye.

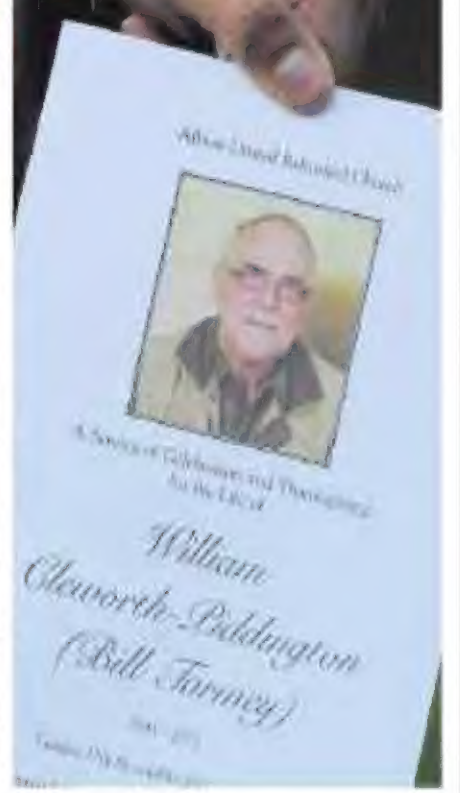

Among the mourners were Liz, Nigel Pivaro, who played Bill's on-screen son Terry Duckworth, and Alan Halsall, whose character, Tyrone Dobbs, looked up to Jack Duckworth as a father figure.

Other Street stars past and present in attendance were William Roache (Ken Barlow), Julie Goodyear (Bet Lynch), Roy Barraclough (Alec Gilroy), Helen Worth (Gail Platt) and Kevin Kennedy ('Curly' Watts).

Samia Ghadie (Maria Connor) told the congregation: "Jack was genuinely one of the most decent and honourable men you could ever wish to meet."

Cam drops in and vows leadership for flood victims

FLOOD victims suffered despair upon disaster when David Cameron came to see their sodden belongings yesterday.

And in another blow, the Prime Minister promised he would take personal charge of the relief effort.

Visiting the Devon village of Buckfastleigh, which was flooded

By SIMON DEAN

at the weekend, Mr Cameron said: "It's obviously very traumatic when communities are hit by flooding like this, but what I found are people are incredibly steadfast and have behaved incredibly bravely at handling the flood and now we need to help them with the recovery."

"We have to make sure their insurance pays out, make sure the Environment Agency puts in place good flood defences, make sure there are better warning schemes."

Meanwhile, the body of an elderly woman was found in a swamped house in St Asaph, North Wales.

The River Elwy flooded about 100 homes in St Asaph after rising above 14ft compared with its usual 3-6ft.

There are two severe flood warnings – indicating danger to life – on the Elwy, and almost 200 regular flood warnings across England and Wales.

Gloucestershire fire service launched its hovercraft to help people at a traveller site, near the village of Sandhurst, trapped by floodwater from the River Severn, having earlier rescued a family of four by boat from their home in the village.

TODAY'S WEATHER

ASTONISHINLY, after what seems like a Biblical 40 days and nights of rain, Wednesday will be dry almost everywhere. You remember "dry" – it's when millions of gallons of rain are NOT falling from leaden skies. East Anglia may get the odd spot of drizzle but it won't be anything like the deluges the country has been suffering. Cold, though, a maximum of 7C or 8C in the south but struggling to get COPS: Cyril WAS a nonce!

THE late Lib-Dem MP Cyril Smith DID sexually abuse young boys, police confirmed last night.

Cops said existing evidence against the former Rochdale politician – who died in 2010 aged 82 – would today have been enough to see Smith face prosecution.

Greater Manchester Assistant Chief Constable Steve Heywood said: "On three separate occasions, files were passed to first the Director of Public Prosecutions then the Crown Prosecution Service containing details of abuse committed by Smith, but on each occasion no prosecution was pursued.

"We believe if the same evidence was presented today there would have been a realistic prospect that Smith would have been charged with a number of indecent assaults.

"Although Smith cannot be charged posthumously, it is right we should publicly recognise that young boys were sexually abused and we will offer them as much support as they need."

IT'S said a typical mum does jobs at Christmas worth £2,500. Amazing, isn't it? Yet I'd have thought it would be even more than that.

Let's face it, you fellas are bloody useless when it comes to organising things for the festive season, leaving us girls to do it all – cards, pressies, wrapping, shopping, cooking, ringing round...just about everything.

Just remember that when it comes to getting us girls gifts!

Mollie: Me and Harry DID date!

SEXY Saturdays singer Mollie King has confessed she DID go on a string of dates with Prince Harry.

The gorgeous blonde had denied the romance since rumours started in the summer, but has now admitted they did go out.

Mollie, 25, said of her fling with the Prince: "Yes, I've met Harry and we did go out."

But she didn't say why her and the ginger 28-year-old party animal went their separate ways, although it could be linked to his NAKED cavorting while in Las Vegas.

Speaking about her search for a fella, she said: "I would like a boyfriend in 2013 but only if he is Mr Right. Every girl should wait for the right man."

Mollie (above) and her bandmates have spent the past few months in America as they're trying to get a big break over there.

She also revealed she'd love to do a movie, adding: "It would be amazing to do a film like Spice World. A film crew has been following us as we try to crack the States."

Karl's fanny Lottery idea

HOPELESS telly hero Karl Pilkington has revealed his FANNYtastic plan to spice up the lottery TV show.

The Idiot Abroad comic is convinced BBC bosses should hire gorgeous female performers who can fire the winning balls from their PUSSIES!

Karl (above), 40, hit upon the idea while travelling in Thailand for his hilarious show.

The wacky Manc was BANNED by his girlfriend from seeing a sexy Thai performance where women shoot ping-pong balls from their privates.

But Karl said: "They should introduce that as a way of 'Releasing the Balls' on the National Lottery, it'd make it a lot more bloody interesting."

Karl is back in a three-part Idiot Abroad special called The Short Way Round, this time with midget pal Warwick Davis.

Kinky sex hotel ban after locals campaign

A SEX club hotel which sparked outrage after opening in a quiet suburb, without proper planning permission, has been ordered to close by council chiefs.

Club Kiss launched in a former NHS rehabilitation centre in Southampton, Hants, with two "superbly equipped dungeons" and a "kinky room".

But a planning committee at Southampton Council has refused their retrospective planning permission after receiving a 1,000-name petition and 150 letters of objection from locals.

A planning report said the change of use had the potential to "cause harm to the residential amenities and character of the area."

And it recommended the hotel's operations "should cease as soon as possible".

Despite the ruling, ward councillor Warwick Payne said it could be months before the hotel is shut down as the owner, Martin Millar, plans to appeal.

Mr Millar, 37, said: "We are simply opening a hotel which is also open to those who enjoy an alternative lifestyle. The events don't attract large numbers of people - so will not cause any traffic or parking problems."

Boyle made IRA plans for Games

FORMER IRA commander Martin McGuinness was almost chosen to carry the Olympic flag into the stadium at the opening ceremony of this summer's London games.

According to reports, Slumdog Millionaire director Danny Boyle - who created the 2012 ceremony - was "stopped" by Prime Minister David Cameron.

And liberal campaigner Shami Chakrabarti stood in to carry the flag.

A Downing Street spokesman added: "The Prime Minister was kept updated and had meetings with Danny."

But Oscar-winning Boyle has denied any involvement by Cameron, saying: "The final decisions about the opening ceremony were ours and ours alone."

Larry Hagman heads to the great rodeo in the sky, so who's next to die with their boots on?

IT'S THE WORLD FAMOUS Sport CELEBRITY DEATH SWEEP

SCREEN OLDIES:
Larry (top) and
Dick van Dyke

THE world said farewell to a TV legend with the death of actor Larry Hagman last week and that can mean only one thing - it's time to update our famous Sport Celebrity Death Sweep!

For more than a decade, Larry played villain J.R. Ewing in American TV series Dallas. But he died last week following a long battle with throat cancer.

Dead certs - pardon the pun - like Larry, Dad's Army favourite Clive Dunn and Bee Gee Robin Gibb are already gone and focus now switches to other famous names casting one nervous eye at the clock.

Will you get ex-PM Margaret Thatcher, 87, who hasn't been in the best of health lately?

Cancer

Or maybe you'll land Mary Poppins star Dick Van Dyke, who at 86 has seen better days?

There's always Kirk Douglas, 95 - or even his son Michael, 68, who has been pictured smoking despite only recently recovering from throat cancer.

Plus contenders like Prince Phillip, 91, David Attenborough, 86, and The Pope, 85 - who must wince every time they hear a bucket being kicked.

So cut out the names stick 'em in a bag and get your workmates to pay a quid to pick one out. Then write down who got what and wait for the Grim Reaper to strike.

He entered no plea to the charges.

Coulby (above) also entered no plea to four counts of possessing extreme pornography on June 5.

Police were called to a property in Risley on June 6 following reports of a man acting suspiciously in a field.

A man was arrested nearby.

'Monkeys' cop denies racism allegations

A POLICE officer denied being racist when he pointed at three black men and said they "look like fing monkeys".

PC Kevin Hughes told interviewers from the Department of Professional Standards (DPS) he had seen a man "walking like a monkey" and was referring to his posture, Westminster Magistrates' Court heard.

Hughes, of Brentwood, Essex, told DPS officers: "I had engaged in a conversation about evolution and how human beings evolved from monkeys."

"I looked out of the window and saw a man walk down the street. I made a remark that the way he was walking looked like a monkey."

Hughes allegedly made the remarks while in a patrol car with three colleagues on February 22, after seeing three black men standing on the pavement.

He denies one count of using threatening words or behaviour to cause alarm and distress and one count of racially-aggravated harassment.

The trial continues.

The Hollywood hottie has bared her perky breasts for some sizzling scenes in upcoming comedy This Is 40, a follow-up to 2007's Knocked Up.

And busty Megan, 26, even lets her co-star Leslie Mann have a cheeky grope of her awesome assets in a jaw-dropping changing room scene.

A showbiz insider said: "There are many ways to make a film look appealing to viewers, and getting Megan Fox to strip down to her bra is always a winner!"

This Is 40 is due to hit UK cinemas next February.

A BOSS boss who hid an iPhone in work showers to make secret films of female colleagues is facing jail.

Nigel Parsons, 34, rigged up the handset in a bathroom at top investment advisers Bestinvest to capture footage workmates as they stripped naked.

His sordid plot was rumbled when a colleague spotted the phone and found recordings of her and a number of other of her co-workers naked in the shower.

Parsons was identified because he had filmed himself setting up and adjusting the device.

Two recordings were made between February 17 and 21 of this year at the firm's offices in swanky Mayfair, central London.

Voyeurism

Parsons pleaded guilty to two counts of voyeurism when he appeared at Southwark Crown Court.

According to the Bestinvest website the firm has won several awards including UK Wealth Manager of the Year 2011 and the Self-Select ISA Provider of the Year 2011.

It also states: "The company is one of the fastest-growing private client advisory firms and is proud to support the NSPCC."

Parsons has been released on bail, but was warned by Judge Michael Grieve QC: "These are serious offences and you will have to accept that custodial sentences are an extremely likely outcome."

Parsons, who has been sacked from his job as financial director with Bestinvest, will be sentenced on January 8.

GAY TAUNTS MADE ME KILL THE MISSUS

A MAN accused of murder has told how he was taunted sexually by his victim who accused him of being gay and bragged about her own conquests.

Muhammad Shafi said Tujanai Sprengel, known as "Tuk", had attacked HIM as they walked through an underpass before he hit her over the head with a pair of metal tin snips and left her body in an underpass.

The 28-year-old said that he had no memory of repeatedly hitting Tuk, 43, who died after having been struck at least NINE times.

He claimed he had hit her once in self-defence when she lunged at him in the early hours of May 27 in Bracknell, Berks.

He told the jury that masseuse Tuk boasted she slept with lots of men, telling him: "When you are gone out in the daytime, I have sex with a different man. You have sex with male friends – you are gay."

Shafi said he did recall

BLOOD: Shafi

the moment she took her last breath, telling a jury at Reading Crown Court: "There was so much blood. When she said I was gay I lost control. I cannot remember what happened."

The jury heard the pair had an Islamic marriage last year, but it was never made legal.

Days before her death, Tuk confided to a pal that Shafi had asked her to have a threesome, becoming enraged when she refused.

Shafi, of Bracknell, denies murder and the trial continues.

A spokesman from SatNav firm Skobbler, who carried out the study of 2,000 drivers, said: "There is no excuse for jumping red lights, tailgating fellow motorists or cutting people up."

"While we all try to be sensible drivers it would seem we are all guilty of a few misdemeanours – whether it's speeding or using phones."

Countdown's chest conundrum shame

A COUNTDOWN contestant brought filming to a halt because he was showing too much CHEST HAIR.

Duncan Conway, 24, from Lenzie, East Dunbartonshire, travelled to the Channel 4 quiz show in Manchester to film the episode – with sexy co-host Rachel Riley (above) – two weeks ago.

But the law student, who had worn a low V-neck t-shirt on the day, was told by production staff that his "offensive" chest hair could cause complaints to telly watchdog Ofcom.

Duncan said: "I have never had any complaints about my chest hair, it's not particularly bushy."

Coppers hunt for groping train pervert

POLICE are warning women to beware of an Inter-City titty groper. They issued a CCTV image of the suspected pervert after a terrified woman was fondled on a train between Newark and Lincoln.

Detectives from British Transport Police said the 26-year-old victim from Newark, was a passenger on the 10pm train.

The man moved from another part of the carriage and sat behind her.

"He then reached between the seats and touched the victim in an indecent manner" said a spokesman.

"The man is then thought to have left the train at Lincoln."

Det Const Andrew Lehman said "The CCTV images are very clear and I'm sure someone will recognise the man pictured."

"We would like to speak to him in connection with this incident and I would encourage anyone who knows the man, or his whereabouts, to get in touch. The man's behaviour was entirely inappropriate."

A SEX-crazed nurse who stripped naked and begged a colleague to spank him has been struck off.

Mark Greavey claimed he was "having a laugh" and denied a series of charges of inappropriate behaviour against him.

But a panel for the Nursing and Midwifery Council in London found Greavey was not fit to practice.

The incidents happened at the Royal Liverpool University Hospital in February last year.

Greavey pinched a female nurse's bottom and when alone with her in a linen cupboard pulled his trousers and underpants down.

Striking Greavey off, panel chair Martin Parker said: "Mr Greavey has shown a lack of insight and during the process he made remarks which suggest he does not take these issues seriously."

A LOAD OF BALLS: Nicole's duet was a shocker

FACTOR!

Shock at judge Nicole's sexually explicit song on live ITV2 show

By ALICE WALKER

alice@sundaysport.co.uk

X FACTOR judge Nicole Scherzinger performed an X-rated duet with finalist James Arthur all about getting hairy balls slapped in her face!

The saucy American was improvising in a recording studio during rehearsals with James when she invented the filthy number.

And she was left red-faced when it was broadcast to millions live on the Xtra Factor on ITV2.

Hosts Caroline Flack and Olly Murs giggled as they introduced the clip and warned audiences of the adult humour it contained.

They then aired a clip of James and his mentor Nicole in a recording studio singing a song they called Vaginas and Hairy Balls.

With James, 24, playing the guitar, 34-year-old Nicole started off the song with "This one goes out to all the vaginas".

She then went on to sing about big hairy balls – and towards the end of the two-minute clip the studio audience were cheering so loudly it virtually drowned out the end of their explicit track.

Just as it ended James, from Middlesbrough, and former Pussycat Doll Nicole hugged and he quipped: "We could be the next Sonny and Cher."

But when Caroline asked her if they were going to release it as a song, Nicole looked mortified and simply said "NO!"

She then went on: "I'm so sorry! That was in the privacy of the rehearsals."

"All I can say is that we were in a moment and sometimes you just have to cut loose."

Nicole has won over audiences of ITV1's X Factor with her quirky sense of humour – and has proved she's nothing like the diva some thought she would be.

A telly insider said: "Nicole is not afraid to make fun of herself."

"She doesn't take herself too seriously – and the Vaginas and Hairy Balls song certainly proves that!"

The lyrics...

This one goes out to all the vaginas,
The balls count too,
Big balls count too,
Big hairy big old balls in your face,
Big hairy balls in your face,
Big hairy balls,
That's what it takes.

BABES HAPPIER AFTER PORN

PORN stars are happier and enjoy sex more than women in other jobs, according to new research.

Babes like Jenna Jameson, 38 (right) – who get paid to have sex on screen – have higher self-esteem and are more positive about life.

The study by Shippensburg University in Pennsylvania, Texas University and the Adult Industry Medical Healthcare Foundation has rubbished claims that adult movie stars come from "troubled" backgrounds.

They compared 177 female porn stars – aged 18 to 50 – with women of the same age, from outside the industry.

A porn star racked up 75 lovers in three years, compared to five for the average woman.

The report said: "In terms of psychological characteristics, porn actresses had higher levels of self-esteem, positive feelings, social support, sexual satisfaction and spirituality compared to the matched group."

A DRINKER was caught giving himself a HAND SHANDY as he ogled a group of young women in a pub.

Peter Steinitz, 57, was caught exposing himself under a table in the packed boozer.

Prosecutor Caroline Harris told a court: "Steinitz was sitting in a chair near the four women when he started creeping them out by staring."

"He opened his trousers and indulged in an indecent act while looking at them in the eyes."

Two male drinkers threw serial flasher Steinitz out of the New Inn, at Wrexham, North Wales, before police arrived.

But one of the young women gave his address to cops after seeing Steinitz putting the bins outside his home two days later.

Steinitz, of Wrexham, admitted outraging public decency and breaching his Sexual Offences Prevention Order.

He was jailed for eight months at Mold Crown Court.

Thieves leave 999 medics stranded

FOUR ambulances were put out of action when metal thieves ripped off their exhausts for scrap.

Catalytic converters in the exhaust system contain small amounts of precious metals which can be sold for scrap.

But police say thieves are putting lives at risk by targeting ambulances.

Supt Glyn Fernquest said: "It's despicable that ambulance service vehicles have been put out of action due to this criminal activity."

"Innocent lives are being put at risk due to the greed of thieves."

The ambulances were hit while parked at depots in Gwent, South Wales.

Police say 31 catalytic converters have been stolen in the area over the last year.

The metal is sold on for scrap for "just a few pounds each" but can cost more than £500 to replace on each ambulance.

GUTTED jungle fans will now have to face the sight of tubby Rosemary Shrager in the tub.

After being treated to weeks of busty Helen Flanagan parading in her bikini in the shower, this is the disappointing scene that greeted those who tuned in last night.

Telly chef Rosemary, 60, lay back in the tub with a rubber duck and kept her fleshy figure covered up with a blue swimsuit.

Not like Helen, 22, Corrie's Rosie Webster, who soaped herself down daily, much to the joy of campmates and crew on the ITV1 show.

Our jungle insider said: "It's been quite shock for us, going from filming sexy Helen to Rosemary lolling around in her dowdy swimsuit."

"OK, Ashley Roberts is still there, but she doesn't fill her bikini as well as Helen!"

FRUSTRATED Helen Flanagan is planning an X-rated BEDROOM challenge for her boyfriend after being kicked off I'm a Celebrity... Get Me Out of Here!

The frisky blonde was given her marching orders from the ITV1 jungle show on Monday night after struggling through a series of Bushtucker Trials.

But her fella Scott Sinclair, who plays for Manchester City, will need some stamina when Helen gets hold of him - after the couple have spent two weeks apart!

Former Coronation Street actress Helen, 22, tweeted yesterday: "Incredible life changing show...all I did was be myself."

"I can't wait to see my boyfriend who I love."

And a friend of the pin-up added: "She's really missed Scott while she's been away."

"Like any young couple, they can't keep their hands off each other. And after two weeks sleeping in the wild, Helen will be looking forward to cuddling up to Scott."

Bigger

"He's not flown out to Australia to meet her - because of his football commitments - but she's said she can't wait to get her hands on him and make up for lost time!"

Meanwhile Scott can also look forward to his missus' 32E boobs getting even BIGGER - now she's back eating proper food.

Helen, who played Rosie Webster in Corrie, hinted: "Seriously, after dinner I go up a cup size when I eat and then it goes down again later."

Her friend said: "Poor Scott has had to make do with admiring Helen's curves on the telly while she's been on the show."

"He'll be thrilled to finally have her home."

Smoker's late-night death fall

A SMOKER fell to his death when he fell out of his bedroom window while having a late-night cigarette.

Joni Brace, 33, opened the window to sit on the ledge for his last smoke of the day.

But he slipped and fell 20ft to his death, hitting his head on a wooden table on the patio below.

Tragic Joni, from Caerleon, South Wales, was found dead by his mother Carol the next morning.

Qualified engineer Joni was working 12-hour shifts to save up for a trip to see his brother in Australia at Christmas.

The night before his death, Joni came home from work and told his mum he was going straight up to bed.

Heartbroken Carol, 61, said: "We're in disbelief over his death, it's just such a tragic accident."

Hundreds of friends have posted tributes to on a Facebook page set up for Joni.

Gwent Police are investigating and an inquest will be opened later this week.

Serial bike bum groper hunted

A BICYCLE bum slapper is being hunted by police after leaving an cheeky impression on two women.

The hoodie-wearing cyclist rode past a 23-year-old mum and smacked her botty before pedalling off.

Nine hours later the same man was peddalling on the pavement near a chemist's shop when he grabbed the buttocks of female pensioner.

He then rode off as the OAP victim's dog barked at him.

Officers say the offender is white and in his late teens and at the time of the two assaults, he was wearing a white hoodie with a zig-zag black pattern on it and riding a mountain bike.

The incidents took place in the Derby suburbs of Allenton and Alvaston on Friday November 16.

FOR FAKE'S SAKE, LEAVE RIH ALONE!

Pop babe again falls foul of web pranksters

By NEIL GOODWIN neil@sundaysport.co.uk

NAUGHTY web geeks have tampered with Rihanna's album cover to reveal her bare breast!

Pop queen Rihanna last week released her latest album Unapologetic – which features her topless on the cover with one arm covering one boob and the other covered by the album title.

But cheeky internet pranksters have digitally removed the album title to reveal the whole of her right breast – including her cherry pink nipple.

The pics are now all over the net – and chat forums are buzzing with fans wondering if the pic is real. Unfortunately, we can confirm that the pic is definitely 100 per cent FAKE.

We have done our research and it is not the real deal.

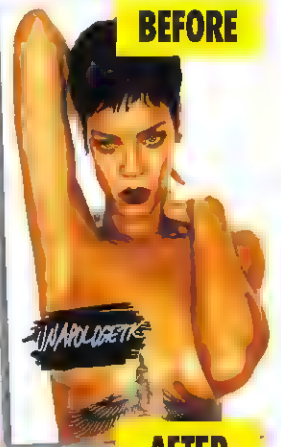

A source said: "At first glance this picture looks genuine and there are certainly a lot of people out there wondering if it is kosher."

"There has been a lot of speculation over its authenticity, but it is actually a fake."

Even so, there is every chance that Rihanna – real name Robyn Fenty – looks pretty much exactly like that with her top off!

And the whole internet furor surrounding this saucy snap has certainly not done her record sales any harm – she stormed to the top of the album chart on Sunday.

It's not the first time Rihanna, 24, has been at the centre of a topless snap controversy – she stunned her millions of Twitter fans by posting a naked snap of her with just her hand covering her downstairs.

I CAN'T believe the appalling weather we've had this last week. Actually, I can.

I read some of it's caused by people ripping up their gardens and putting decking in. If my home floods I'm suing Charlie Dimmock!

AMPUTEE WAR HERO'S 3,000 MILE

'A bomb took my I was terrified a

RISKY DIP: We never took the plunge without our shark repellent!

ROWING a boat 3,000 miles across the Atlantic Ocean is tough enough.

Now, imagine doing it after BOTH your legs have been blown off by a suicide bomber.

Oh, and there's a pack of man-eating sharks on your trail...

If you think it's impossible, you obviously haven't met Iraq war hero Corporal Neil Heritage.

Superhuman Neil – who lost both legs above the knee when an Islamic extremist detonated a device just yards away from him – was part of the Row2Recovery team who managed it in 51 days.

In addition to Neil, the six-man team included injured soldiers Lieutenant Will Dixon, Corporal Rory Mackenzie and Lance Corporal Carl Anstey, as well as able-bodied ex-servicemen Alex Mackenzie and Ed Janvrin, who organised the challenge and assembled the final crew.

Of the 452 rowing boat crews to have attempted the Atlantic crossing from La Gomera in the Canary Islands to Barbados in the Caribbean, only 284 have succeeded – that's fewer people than have climbed Mount Everest or been into space!

So far the Row2Recovery team has raised almost £1million for military charities.

But they definitely earned every last penny!

Almost a year after they reached dry land, the team's specially-adapted rowing boat is on show at the River & Rowing Museum, Henley-on-Thames, Oxfordshire.

And Neil, 32, has spoken EXCLUSIVELY to Midweek Sport about malfunctions with the boat, the perils of flying fish, rowing in the NUDE, and being followed by deadly GREAT WHITE SHARKS!

HOW DID YOU PREPARE FOR SUCH A DEMANDING CHALLENGE?

It was probably about eight or nine months before we found out who would actually be rowing the boats, so we all put quite a lot of time into it before we even knew we were going.

We found out in the July, but we'd been training hard since the January. Then we'd meet up and do all the skills on the boat – things like rowing – together.

YOU'VE SAID YOUR INJURIES WERE THE WORST. DID THEY HOLD YOU BACK?

No, I wouldn't say so. The other lads were allowed to use sliding seats, which helps with the rowing, but my seat was in a fixed

By NEIL GOODWIN
ne@sundaysport.co.uk

position, which meant I had to do things a bit differently.

I had to do a lot of preparation to make sure my back was strong enough because, in training, that's where I'd noticed the problems were coming up.

My lower back was where I'd get a lot of pain, so that's where I concentrated a lot of my efforts, strengthening that up.

HOW EXACTLY DID YOU LOSE YOUR LEGS?

I was injured in 2004 by a suicide bomber, outside of Baghdad.

I was working as part of a bomb disposal team and we'd been tasked with clearing a road of IEDs (Improvised Explosive Devices).

We'd finished that task and were peeling away, but sat in the traffic was a suicide bomber who detonated a couple of metres from us.

I lost both legs above the knee. In modern conflict, I was the first double above-the-knee amputee.

HOW DID IT AFFECT YOU PSYCHOLOGICALLY?

I was 24 at the time and I was more like, "I'm lucky to be here" than worrying about the injuries.

That was my mind-set really – I was just happy that I was still alive.

I didn't have counselling myself but, if I'd been having those kinds of problems, it would have been an option. But it wasn't something I felt I needed.

WHAT WAS YOUR JOB ON THE BOAT?

I was in charge of the technical equipment and electronics, which fitted with my background.

I'd done a fairly technical job in the Army. I was an electronics specialist, so it wouldn't have been me taking the bombs apart – I had a supporting role to that – but that's what I was.

DID YOU HAVE MANY OBSTACLES IN YOUR WAY?

Yeah, absolutely. We had a leak in the boat and lost our medical equipment early.

We also lost our auto-helm system, which automatically steers the boat on the most efficient course. We had two of those and they both broke within 48 hours.

We left in some tough conditions and all the deck of the boat was under water quite a lot and it isn't designed for that.

It can take getting wet, but being submerged in water, it didn't last.

WAS THAT THE WORST OF YOUR PROBLEMS OUT THERE?

No. The big one was losing the water disseminator.

We were halfway across when the machine that turns sea water into drinking water broke.

Basically, the pump system got wet and it packed in. We managed to fix it a couple of times, but after a few days it totally broke and we didn't have it any more, so that was a big blow.

It broke after 12 hours, so we still had more than a fair way to go. We had no choice but to go to a hand-pump system, where you manually pump and it makes five litres of water an hour.

From then, the system was row for two hours, pump water for an hour and then have an hour's rest.

We had 200 litres of water on board that we had to carry as part of the rules and we went from using 50 or 60 litres of water a day to two-and-a-half litres each a day. We had to ration.

SO HOW DID YOU GET AROUND THAT?

The rules were that you must go from land to land without any assistance, but we just weren't going to do it. We had 1,300 miles to go with 200 litres of water, so it wasn't going to happen.

In the end, we arranged to legs in Iraq... shark would get the rest of me!

BEFORE:

AFTER:
Our hero

have some water brought to us on a yacht from the Cape Verde Isles.

What with bad weather and other issues, it took 17 days to get that water – and by the time it arrived, we'd rationed down to as little as a litre of water a day each.

We stopped, anchored the boat and waited for five days for the yacht to catch us up.

There was no way we were going to give up. For the team, it wasn't about us – it was about all the people around us who'd put in a huge effort, so not finishing would've been a blow.

WERE YOU EVER WORRIED ABOUT BEING EATEN BY A SHARK?

When we saw a pod of dolphins, it was a sure sign that we were getting closer to land. That also means there's an increased worry about sharks!

There are some seriously big Great Whites out there. And a few sharks actually trailed our boat.

The hull was absolutely covered in barnacles, so some crew members were taking it in turns to clean them off as they have a significant impact on the streamlining of the boat as it cuts through the sea.

They wore the shark repellent belt regularly – it's apparently very effective.

It's just a small bag the size of a fist with string at the top containing a grey powder. You tie it around your waist and if a shark approaches you release the powder, which forms a cloud around you and wards off the shark.

If it doesn't work, you're shark food. It was a worry, I'd lost my legs in Iraq, I didn't want the sharks to get the rest of me!

We also saw a 15ft long marlin, which circled the boat for a while. That was a nervous moment because a few years ago one of the boats was skewered by a marlin and had to withdraw.

Fortunately, this one didn't fancy us and disappeared off into the wide ocean.

DID ANY OF YOU SUFFER ANY BAD INJURIES OUT ON THE WATER?

As a crew we were fairly lucky. Rory had the worst of it, with an old piece of shrapnel coming out of his butt partway across!

He really struggled with that for a while, pain-wise.

What happened to Carl was quite funny. We had a little light on the boat and that probably attracted the flying fish, usually about 20 or 30 of them a night.

They range from very small to 10 inches long. They'd jump onto the deck and we'd have to clear them off. But one of them hit Carl straight on the head.

And to be honest, we had to row NAKED for most of the trek. You get wet from waves coming over and then that dries off and the salt in your clothes becomes quite abrasive, so you end up being better off rowing naked to prevent getting sores.

It's safe to say we now know each other very well!

Want to hear more about the extraordinary journey?

Get yourself down to the River & Rowing Museum, Henley-on-Thames, on Saturday 1 December where the crew will be giving a lecture and signing copies of their new book The Row To Recovery.

Dead paedo Jim fixed it for garage

THE boss of a car repair firm called 'Jim'll Fix It' yesterday boasted how his business was booming – thanks to the Savile paedophile scandal.

Jim Thomas, 49, admitted he thought about switching the name of his Midland-based firm after disgraced DJ Savile was outed as a serial child abuser.

But the car dent removal expert decided to keep the name after a bizarre upturn in trade.

He was inundated with business after hundreds of people accidentally clicked onto Jim's website after reading about the Savile affair on the internet.

Jim, from Rawsley, near Cannock, Staffs., said: "I'm going to carry on regardless."

"Up to this point the Savile scandal hasn't impacted my business at all in a negative way – in fact I've taken on more customers."

"When the paedo stuff all came out it was a bit cringey and embarrassing for me but it all worked out for me to be honest."

Firm fined after scaffolder death

A BUILDING company was fined £130,000 over the death of one of Britain's most accident-prone workers.

Scaffolder Russell Samuel, 40, was hospitalised 14 times in 15 years with previous injuries including puncturing his TESTICLE with a metal spike.

Father-of-two Russell was killed when he fractured his skull when he plunged 62ft at a new apartment block.

Russell was working on the fourth storey of a block of flats at Swansea, south Wales, when he walked on to a "fragile" board placed over a hole.

A court heard the board was not capable of taking his weight.

Builders Carillion Construction admitted breaching Health and Safety regulations.

The firm also had to pay £52,000 in costs.

'Voyeur' nurse found hanged

A MALE nurse was found hanged days after he was arrested for alleged voyeurism at the posh boarding school where he worked.

Neil Riley, 54, had allegedly installed at least one hidden camera to spy on female colleagues at the £22,000-a-year Stonyhurst College in Clitheroe, Lancashire.

He was found hanged at his home in Great Harwood, Lancashire, on November 16 – just five days after being arrested and released on police bail.

Staff had raised concerns about Riley, who was also involved in the school's combined cadet force.

Police said one or more cameras were allegedly installed in staff areas at the 400-year-old college – one of the most prestigious in the country.

It is thought four female members of staff may have been targeted.

Pond plundering carp crook caged

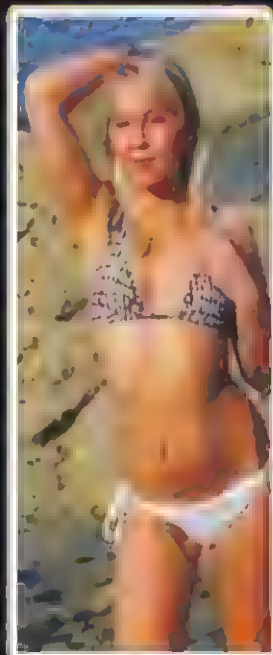

COPPERS suspected something fishy at a burglar's house – and found more than £22,000 worth of KOI CARP in his new garden pond.

Dominic Oliver, 22, dug a water feature in his back garden and decided he wanted some exotic fish to fill it.

He broke into a vet's surgery – and used a big net to land the Japanese fish from the practice's water feature.

And a court heard how he returned FIVE nights in a row to net 14 of the prestige swimmers.

Oliver, of Burry Port, south Wales, was jailed for 10 months.

Babe bares boobs she bought with horse race winnings

AND THEY'RE OFF!

CURVY Kim Miner has finally got the boobs she dreamed of – after winning her DDs on gee-gees.

Skint Kim had been saving a pound a day for seven years to fund a boob job, but was still three years away from giving her breasts a boost.

And if it hadn't been for a giant slice of luck at the races, the cleaner would be still saving for her plastic surgery.

But after she turned a modest £10 wager into in a £1,000 win on the horses, she was able to go under the knife.

Kim flew to Turkey last month for the £3,000 op to transform her 32B bust into an eye-catching 32DD.

Last night she told Midweek Sport: "I'm over the moon with the results. I'd saved so long and hard for this operation and can't believe it has finally happened."

"I always thought it would take me 10 years, but the win at the races helped me bring it forward so that was great." Kim, 23, from Bradford, West Yorks, began saving for a bust boost when she was 16. But she had so little money left from her £100-a-week job she could only manage to put away a pound a day.

In May this year her op pot stood at £2,500, but a trip to York races helped her hit the jackpot.

Kim said: "My friends treated me to a day at the races and I picked three horses. I got talking to a guy in the queue and he said I could put £10 on the lot for an accumulator – and they all won!"

Hard

"I couldn't believe it when the last horse came in. My winnings were £1,030!"

"As soon as I got home, I went online and booked myself into the clinic and I had my operation at the end of October."

Single Kim said: "I'm so pleased. They are the boobs I have always dreamed of and I've paid for them myself with hard work and a slice of luck. Now all I need is a boyfriend to appreciate them."

The queue starts here, fellas!

Bin bible for better bonks, says research

ATHEISTS enjoy a better sex life than God fearers, according to new research.

And that's great news for Richard Dawkins (above), the author of The God Delusion, which has sold over two million copies worldwide.

More than half of people – 55 per cent – say nookie has improved dramatically after they quit religion.

Only 2.2 per cent say it has got worse.

Feeling less guilty about hanky-panky was the key reason behind the surge in sexual satisfaction.

The study says those married to very religious people had the least satisfying sex.

And restrictions on bedroom activities often led to marital problems.

The research, by best-selling American psychologist Dr. Darrel W. Ray, charts what kind of sex more than 14,500 people had and at what age.

And all non-religious people had more intercourse, oral sex, masturbation and petting than those who believed in God.

Couple cheated out of cash by own lies

A LYING couple fiddled themselves out of benefits – and now they will be paying for it for the next 30 years.

Benefit bozos Anthony Jones, 29, and Ceri Williams, 31, were paid £70,000 by claiming they were not living together.

But a court heard the “stupid” pair would have picked up more cash if they had told the truth.

Alexander Greenwood, defending, said: “They were receiving £242 per week but now get £305.

“These were clearly acts of stupidity.”

Merthyr Tydfil Crown Court heard the pair got married but failed to declare they were living together.

Jones and Williams, of Ton Pentre, Rhondda, south Wales, admitted a string of charges. They are now set to pay back £200 a month for nearly 30 years to clear their debt.

Material Girl is keeping flesh

MADGE

By JUSTIN DUNN

justin@sundaysport.co.uk

POP queen Madonna has gone TOPLESS again at the age of 54.

The Material Girl stripped off for the ad campaign for her latest perfume – Truth or Dare Naked.

Sadly, her nipples are hidden by the logo for the scent, which is the new version of a fragrance she originally launched in 1992.

But not to worry – because the Like A Virgin star has flashed them loads of times before!

Madonna, still looking amazing, first started peeling off for money a staggering 33 years ago in 1979 when she was an up-and-coming singer in New York.

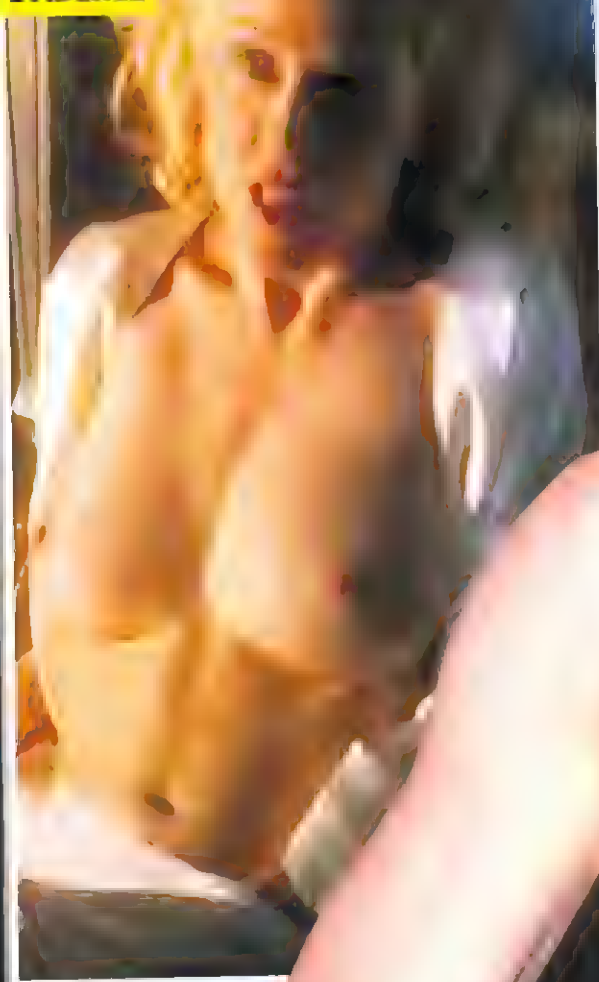

Then just 19, she survived by eating only popcorn and also got cash for posing COMPLETELY NAKED in a sizzling set of black and white snaps.

That was just the first time that Madge flashed her VADGE, which she later happily displayed in her raunchy 1992 book Sex.

The titillating tome saw her appeared in a number of sexy solo naked poses and with other nude stunners like supermodel Naomi Campbell.

HEAVEN SCENT: Madonna models her new posh pong

To promote the book she did an interview and topless photoshoot with swanky American magazine Vanity Fair.

Also in 1992, she famously strode down French designer Jean Paul Gaultier's catwalk in pin-striped dungarees with her boobs poking out.

The following year she stripped off for a raunchy role on the big screen as a bisexual murderess in the movie Body of Evidence alongside Willem Defoe.

And in 1995 she got 'em out again at the Bedtime Stories Pyjama Party held in New York.

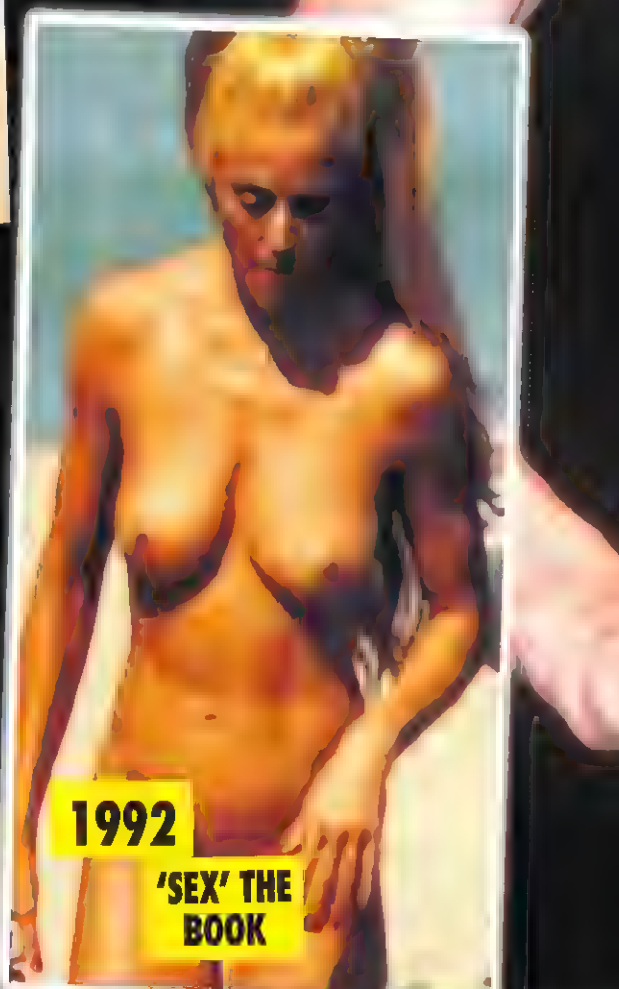

Earlier this year she delighted fans attending her live concert in Paris by deliberately pulling down her bra top to reveal her left boob.

One source close to the singer said: “Madge knows she's still got a body that most women of her age would die for.

“She won't be stopping showing it off for a while yet.”

Mr Yummy is facing jail for Mr Whippy hit

A "MR YUMMY" ice cream man filmed smashing the van window of a Mr Whippy could be jailed.

Driver Zeheer Ramzan has been convicted of assault with intent upon a rival seller.

He had previously pleaded guilty to criminal damage and possession of a weapon in a public place, but denied assault.

But his account of events was 'untruthful' said Blackburn JPs.

The row, in which Ramzan was armed with a wheel wrench, led to a million hits on YouTube when the latter half of the assault was captured as it unfolded in the Lancs town on a local's mobile phone.

The 34-year-old had told police his victim, Mr Whippy seller Mohammed Mulla, had purposely rear-ended the back of his van.

But JPs accepted Mr Mulla's version of events, that he had been struck on the arm with the wrench, and then showered with glass from a smashed window.

Ramzan (above), of Halifax, West Yorks, was bailed to return for sentencing next month.

'Nipple' group force boob ban

"SAY no to nipples" campaigners have forced a store to ban its burlesque boobs.

A display of erotic art at a boutique featuring photos and paintings of bare-breasted burlesque models, their nipples covered with tassels, were put up on the walls after the shop underwent a facelift.

But Nic Ramsey, owner of the She Said Emporium in Brighton, has been forced to paint over the artwork after protestors complained that it was offensive.

The pics included a painting of a Marilyn Monroe lookalike, with nipple tassels and a fan, and an animal mural of the Garden of Eden with insects having sex and bugs having threesomes.

Nic said "If it was a canvas or a hung picture it would be a piece of art. It breaks my heart."

WHAT A KNOB!

FRESH MEAT star Jack Whitehall has told how he left his co-star Kimberley Nixon terrified - by accosting her with a huge black DILDO!

The actor, who plays JP in the Channel 4 show, borrowed the enormous toy so he could pretend it was his own manhood - and shocked her so much she had to stop filming.

Jack said he struggled to contain himself when he filmed the nookie scenes with Kimberley. So to ease the tension, he decided to grab a sex aid - which he fears may even have been USED as it came from one of the crew member's VANS!

Jack, 24, said: "My instinct when I get naked is to be wild and have fun. "Poor Kimberley. When we first had to do our sex scene, I went to the props department and said to my friend Paul, 'Have you got something I can put down my trunks for this scene?'

"He came back a minute later and handed me the biggest black dildo I have ever seen."

"I was like, 'Why is this in the props department?' and he was like, 'Oh, I just had it in the back of the van.'"

"He duct-taped it to my leg, then we started doing this scene where I'm naked."

"But then Kimberley suddenly started giggling and went, 'Alright, I'm going to have to stop, because she looked down and I was wagging it at her."

The actor says he's also fascinated by troubled cage fighter Alex Reid's sex dungeon - and how he built it!

He said: "I just don't understand. Do you simply go into a John Lewis store and say, 'I'm doing a sex dungeon. Can you take me to the sex dungeon department? I need chains and a harness!'"

LAST week I did a masked photoshoot which was really fun – it was nice to do something a bit different.

I wore loads of different masks for a mysterious shoot and I am really pleased with the pictures.

This mask had a massive long nose which I found pretty funny – because my own nose is pretty big as it is!

With Linsey Dawn McKenzie

X FACTOR just isn't the same now Ella Henderson has gone – I am still really pissed off about her leaving!

I really think she was going to win it and I honestly believe the public thought she was safe and that's why she got the fewest votes.

But now she is gone I am transferring my support to Jahmene Douglas and I really hope he can win it.

He has great potential and I think it would be an amazing confidence boost for him, which is exactly what he needs.

I really like James Arthur as well but I don't think he needs to win it to be successful – I think he'll go far no matter what.

It doesn't seem that long ago that I was watching the auditions and now it's the semi-final this weekend already.

DON'T BE THE NEW CHERYL AND ASHLEY

WHEN I saw that Wayne Rooney hooker Jenny Thompson has been trading saucy messages with footballer Danny Simpson I wasn't at all surprised.

He is obviously just like loads of other footballers who are bored in their hotel rooms before a game and decide to exchange sex texts with pretty girls.

But I was shocked that he was doing it while Jenny is pregnant – I wouldn't have thought men would find women sexy when they're up the duff!

When I was pregnant with my son I got offered to do modelling but to be honest I couldn't think of anything worse – it really didn't appeal to me at all.

I just don't think pregnant women look sexy in that way at all – and I am interested to know what you lot think about it!

Jenny is a pretty girl and I think she looks nice pregnant but just not in a sexual way.

To be honest the thing that really struck me about the whole story is that Tulisa is being an idiot for sticking with him.

If she can't see it then she's a total fool – if she carries on with him then she's going to end up getting hurt.

My advice for Tulisa would be to run for the hills!

She thinks everyone is being nosey and getting involved in her business but at the end of the day they are just looking out for her and warn her what he is like.

To me it seems just like Cheryl and Ashley Cole all over again – it's like history repeating itself and I think she'll end up getting her heart broken just like Cheryl did.

Limelight

And I can't believe Katie Price has been going on about how everyone is being unfair on Tulisa.

What the f does she know about it? She is claiming that she and Tulisa are alike! How on earth can she compare herself to Tulisa?

Tulisa is a young girl who has been thrust into the limelight hosting a TV show in front of 10 million people every week.

Katie Price is just a washed up model who looks like a drag queen! She should just f off.

I WILL be back on Redlight Central tonight so make sure you tune in.

On Monday night I did my sexy air hostess night again and I loved it. It's still really popular but I am wondering if maybe I should try something else.

If there is anything you would like to see then tweet me @linseydawn and give me your ideas!

The other night I had a guy on who had just split up with his missus and he was really upset.

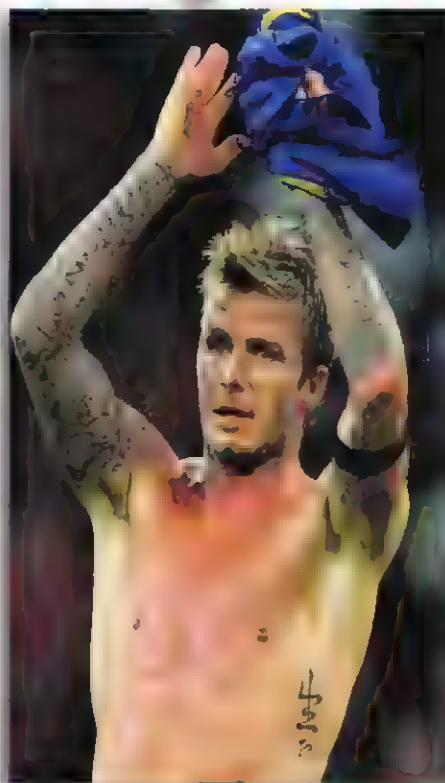

He was distraught and was asking me why women cheat. I felt I was getting the blame for his other half. I told him the main reason women cheat is because they are bored but I don't think that really helped.

It is nice that men see me as someone who can help them with problems as well as do sex chat but I felt out of my depth.

In the end I told him to call the Samaritans!

Don't forget to tune in tonight (Wed) and Monday (Dec 3) – Sky Channel 932 from 10pm to 5.30am.

QPR get Becks appeal

I AM so excited that David Beckham might be signing for Queens Park Rangers!

Now you are fing talking! I can't wait!

He is so fit – I can't believe he might be playing for my team! If he does end up signing for us then I will be down there every single week to see him.

I first started supporting QPR because my friend Jamie Mackie signed for them – but now I am actually a proper fan.

I have got to know a lot of fans and I really like their spirit and now I am quite attached to the club.

Sexier

In the past couple of years I have seen them through highs and lows and now I know that even if my friend left to play for another team I would still support them.

And if Becks plays for them then it would just be the icing on the cake – he gives me a definite twinge in my minge.

It's funny because a lot of people tell me that I look like a sexier version of Victoria Beckham so he might even fancy me!

Panther fear after Del Boy gets mauled

A BIG cat is feared to be prowling the British countryside after a pony was savagely attacked.

Del Boy the Shetland pony was found lying in the mud, covered in deep gashes and bite marks.

Both his owner and experts believe the two-year-old was mauled by a big cat – possibly an escaped panther – after he had been left out overnight to graze at the farm where he was stabled.

Sarah Pittman, 45, said: "It was a horrible thing to see. Poor Del Boy was lying there covered in blood."

"He had deep bite marks – it's giant cats like pumas or panthers on the loose."

The attack happened at Drynham Lane Farm, near Trowbridge, Wilts.

Wildlife experts believe there are big cats including pumas, panthers and even leopards roaming the British countryside, and there have been 38 sightings since 2005.

Danny Bamping, of the British Big Cats Society, said: "There's absolutely no doubt that they are out there."

Flight pair's baby fright!

AIRPORT staff got a shock when a couple prepared to board their holiday jet – and left their BABY behind!

The couple got their plane tickets for the 4,500-mile flight to the Caribbean, forgetting about the infant lying in its carry cot.

Gatwick spokesman John Briley said: "The parents were flying to Montego Bay, needed to get another boarding pass and just left the baby."

Frantic calls went out and they were eventually reunited with the tot.

Mr Briley added: "We get wedding dresses all the time – we had four last month. Goodness knows how a bride can forget her wedding dress but it happens a lot."

PEEP SHOW DAVE'S WIFE & THE HARDCORE BUM SEX FLICK!

TAKE A PEEP AT THIS: Victoria saw porn legend Julie Meadows in action

UP FOR IT: Victoria and David get hitched

THE pretty wife of Peep Show star David Mitchell once helped produce a hard-core porn film featuring THREE-SOMES and ANAL SEX.

Victoria Coren – a columnist for our rival newspaper The Guardian – then went on to write a book about the whole XXX-rated experience.

Coren, 39, married funnyman Mitchell, 38, last month after the pair had been dating for two years.

Her book, which came out in 2002, is called Once More, With Feeling: How We Tried To Make The Greatest Porn Film Ever.

Orgy

It was written with university friend Charlie Skelton after the pair came up with the idea to make a flesh flick when they were joint porn film reviewers for snooty w*nk mag Erotic Review.

They wrote: "We became entranced by the bits that other consumers fast forward – the introduction of a character, the development of a spurious narrative, the rationale for removing a pair of trousers."

Victoria, who hosts BBC4 quiz show Only Connect, came up with the idea of making The Naughty Twins and travelled to Las Vegas, the porn film-making capital of the world, to get some ideas.

While there, they were on set to watch legendary US porn actress

Julie Meadows performing ORAL, ANAL and FULL SEX while the cameras whirled.

The Naughty Twins, which was shot in Amsterdam using real porn stars, features LESBIAN sex, GAY SEX and a three-way orgy.

But despite the success of their book the film was never released and only shown to "friends, colleagues and some blokes off the telly".

One reviewer who has seen it wrote: "This is a step towards the Holy Grail of modern pornography – something that a couple could watch together and enjoy as a movie before retiring to the bedroom."

Coren is also a frequent panellist and presenter of TV quiz shows and a keen poker player.

Touts making it Doom & Gloom for Stones fans

ROLLING Stone Mick Jagger may have joked about the "cheap seats" being expensive for the band's 50th Anniversary gigs, but he's right – with standing room tickets being flogged online for nearly £5000 each for tomorrow's night's London show.

As the ageing rockers played to a sellout crowd at the O2 Arena on Sunday night touts were accused of pricing fans out of the market.

Agencies and lone touts who snapped up the tickets at face value are selling them at vastly inflated prices.

Tickets for the shows went on sale last month for between £106 and £406 with hospitality deals for the standing only "tongue pit" in front of the stage going for £1,140.

However, tickets are currently being sold on website Viagogo for up to £4,995 for the standing area.

During Sunday's show Jagger, 69, said: "How's everyone in the cheap seats? But the problem is, they're not so cheap, are they."

They are reportedly being paid around £16m for the two London gigs and two U.S. dates.

MIDWEEK

GUY goes to the doctors with a mince pie wedged up his bum. The doctor takes a look and says: "Don't worry, I've got some cream for that."

Woman's butt costs her £345

A WOMAN ended up with a £345 bill after throwing a cigarette on the floor.

Lynette Shaw, 35, discarded a butt in Oldham town centre and was spotted by an eagle-eyed Environmental Health Enforcement Officer.

She ignored penalty notices which led the council to launch legal action.

The town's Magistrates hit Ms Shaw, of Sholver, with an £80 fine, ordered her to pay £250 costs and slapped on a £15 victim surcharge.

She failed to attend court and was found guilty in her absence.

Oldham councillor Jean Stretton said: "Everyone should clean up after themselves, if they don't then they should be prepared to face the consequences."

"Littering is a blight on the borough."

HOPE YOU'RE GOOD WITH YOUR HANDS, TULISA!

Beauty salon babe

Danny loves to pop in for a massage

with new fella,
Newcastle star
Danny Simpson

HERE'S hoping X Factor judge Tulisa Contostavlos is as good with her hands as she is with her mouth!

Because the home-made sex tape star's new footballer boyfriend Danny Simpson LOVES a massage.

That's according to busty beauty shop worker Emma Danson.

The pretty brunette says Newcastle United defender Simpson used to love popping in to her salon for a special sporting RUB DOWN.

Slippery Emma, 28, used to work as a receptionist at a swanky beauty therapy centre, set in the leafy suburb of Worsley, Manchester.

Crave

And she has revealed former Manchester United player Simpson, 25, would crave a weekly back rub.

Speaking about the star, who moved to Newcastle in 2010, Emma said: "I'm so dizzy I never knew who any of the players were."

"But the girls who work there would fill me in as to who they were."

"Danny Simpson was in a fair bit and he really enjoys a massage."

By ISOBEL DICKINSON

izzy@sundaysport.co.uk

"He and his Man United mates also liked to go on the sunbeds."

"Maybe they want nice brown legs before they get them out on match days!"

Emma, a top-heavy 32DD from Irlam, Greater Manchester, reckons Danny has a "fantastic body".

Former N-Dubz singer Tulisa, 24, began dating Simpson earlier this month.

She has denied claims that she jumped into his bed BEFORE he had split from ex-girlfriend Stephanie Ward, who is pregnant with his second child.

Men make boob over bra sizes

MILLIONS of blokes are completely clueless when it comes to their other half – including their mobile number and even BRA SIZE.

Favourite perfume, date of birth and even eye colour are beyond many men, a new study found.

While 60 per cent of men claim to know their wife or girlfriend "very well", 40% admit having have no idea what size dress she is.

One in five don't know what size undies to buy her, while a staggering 12% can't even remember her date of birth!

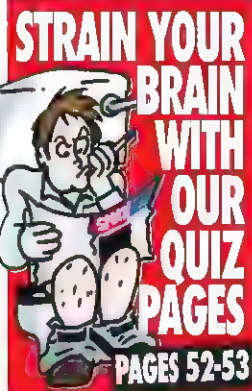

As a result, 40% of couples have rowed because the fella has forgotten – or never asked – things he should know off by heart.

Gemma Mason from Superdrug, which conducted the survey of 1,000 blokes, said: "Men can be forgiven for not knowing their partner's mobile telephone number off by heart – but it's not difficult to take a look on their dressing table to see which perfume they like to use."

The survey also revealed 10% of men don't know what their partner's proper job title is, while a third can't remember the name of the school she went to.

Garden 'shroom kills wife, 57

A WOMAN has died after eating poisonous MUSHROOMS.

Christine Hale ate the deadly fungi after it had been picked from her garden.

The 57-year-old died of multi-organ failure in intensive care at a hospital in Taunton, Somerset last week.

Her husband ate a smaller amount of the deadly grub and was also admitted to hospital but recovered and has been able to return to his home in Bridgwater, Somerset.

An inquest has been opened and adjourned into Mrs Hale's death and a full hearing will take place next year.

Britain's hottest glamour models aren't just being showered with affection, they're being showered with GIFTS, too!

There's a growing trend for the UK's pin-ups to create 'Wish Lists' on top shopping website Amazon.co.uk.

It allows admirers to splash-out on presents for their favourite ladies, with things like shoes, make-up, lingerie and SEX TOYS high on the eye-popping list.

Meanwhile other scorchers use micro-blogging site Twitter to appeal to their wealthy supporters.

But if you want to get these stunnas a Christmas present you're going to need deep pockets – because busty 24-year-old Jemma Henley has put a second hand RANGE ROVER on her Wish List, worth a whopping £16,000!

The 30G stunna admitted: "There's no shortage of rich men who want to lavish you with gifts – despite the fact they've never even met you!"

"It makes them feel good to be so generous, and of course us models appreciate the gesture too!"

More 'Jaws' reported in Brit waters

BRITAIN's seas are becoming infested with deadly Great White sharks, experts fear.

The razor-toothed predators kill around 100 people worldwide every year.

Immortalised in the Jaws movies, the fierce maneaters can grow more than 20ft in length.

Now, boffins, after examining reports of Great Whites in British waters over the past 18-years, say there have been 10 "credible" sightings of the beasts off our shores – eight off north Cornwall and two in the Outer Hebrides.

Writing in the BBC's Wildlife Magazine, conservationist Richard Peirce said: "One theory is it may be due to the warming of British seas."

"However, I believe that the increase in reported encounters simply reflects the fact that we are spending more time at sea."

"It explains a paradox: shark populations are in freefall globally due to unsustainable fishing practices, yet today there are more records than ever of big sharks and attacks on people."

Weather hits giant breast

A HUGE illuminated BOOB on a hilltop is the latest victim of the bad weather.

The giant breast, created by Warminster artist Bruce Munro, was due to be "lit up" this week, but the torrential rain has made the ground dangerously boggy.

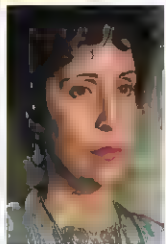

The sculpture set for Kilmingdon Hill, near Trowbridge, Wilts, was built to raise awareness for cancer charities. It was moulded in artist Bruce's studio nearby.

In clear weather the illuminated Beacon On The Hill as it is called, will be visible for miles.

It will take several days for a team of five to carry the parts up the 900ft-high hill and put them together for the switch-on which will now take place next spring.

Bruce said: "This will be a beacon of light in support of all who are, or have been, affected by this disease."

Stars of Sky's 'Spanish Downton' show their upstairs and downstairs

By ALICE WALKER
alice@sundaysport.co.uk

STUFFY Downton Abbey has never looked more dowdy.

Because a new Spanish version of the period drama is crammed to the creaky rafters with toff BOOBS!

New Sky Arts series Grand Hotel is set in 1905 and follows the goings-on at a swanky holiday pad in rural Spain.

The plot centres on a man who visits to the idyllic lodging to uncover the truth behind his sister's disappearance.

And while critics are calling it the 'Spanish Downton', Grand Hotel makes the ITV1 show look like a dump.

Gorgeous actress Amaia Salamanca plays Alicia Alarcon, the beautiful heiress daughter of the rich hotel owners.

The 26-year-old shed her clothes to revealed her pert maracas in 2009 movie Fuga de Cerebros.

And Adriana Ozores, 53, who plays Alicia's mum Doña Teresa, stripped starkers to air her plump love-pillows in Spanish movie Plenilunio in 1999.

Sky Arts channel director James Hunt said the series was "Sumptuous, and he female leads are hot, too!"

You can watch Grand Hotel on Sundays at 8pm on Sky Arts 2.

NEW PENSION RULES 'FORCE OLD FOLK TO WORK LONGER...'

WORST NIGHTMARE POLL - RESULT JUST IN...

● CRACKING BBC2 sitcom Hebburn finished with a wedding, which took place on a hospital ward as the groom's father had suffered a stroke. Ah well, it was a Geordie wedding. You might as well get to hospital early and beat the rush.

● THERE was a fella dressed as a pirate on ITV1 show Take Me Out. Luckily he did not have to walk the plank. He just had to take it on a date.

TUBBY actor James Corden "interviewed" tubby pop star Robbie Williams on Sky 1's When Robbie Met James.

When I say "interview", I mean "see how far he could stick his tongue up his jacksy".

Seriously, if he was to pick any Robbie lyric, it would have to be: "I'm loving anus instead."

To be fair, Williams was more than happy to return the favour.

Talk about bromance. They were gazing into each other's eyes like lovesick teenagers – each one cooing over the other's brilliance and making sure that we all knew what great pals they were in real life.

No wonder they named the show after the classic movie When Harry Met Sally. I was waiting for the orgasm scene – but neither would have needed to fake it.

The chat took place in an otherwise empty Watford Colosseum, allegedly because this was where a young Corden had watched Williams play his first ever solo gig.

In fact, it was probably because a 1400-seat venue is the bare minimum space you'd need to contain two such whopping egos.

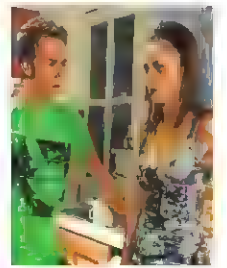

Because, beneath all the mutual admiration bollocks, what both men were really saying was: "Look at who I am mates with! I must be pretty f*cking brilliant, eh?"

Yeah, well done guys. You are both so brilliant.

And so very, very lonely.

The critic who leaves TV bosses quaking

Batchelor ON THE BOX

● CORRIE'S David Platt tried to seduce girlfriend Kylie by showing her his mam's work rota.

I've heard of women getting turned on by Fifty Shades of Grey before – but never 50 Shifts of Gail.

To be fair, they were just trying to work out when they would have the house to themselves. I mean, who'd want Gail walking into the bedroom just as you are about to have sex? Even her husbands tried to avoid it.

Meanwhile, mad Kirsty is not into Fifty Shades of Grey either – but she does enjoy knocking seven shades of sh*t out of her partner Tyrone.

Her controlling behaviour reached a new low when she confiscated Ty's mobile phone. What kind of woman would do such a thing?

Apart from maybe Tess Daly.

● EASTENDERS was more IncestEnders this week, with kissing cousins Joey and Lauren ignoring the family tree and going straight for the root.

It was pretty disgusting. I do not expect the BBC to broadcast images of cousins getting romantically entangled. Not unless it is a Royal Wedding.

The pair tried to do a bunk but ended up crashing their car into a pound shop, causing a huge explosion.

Luckily they were rescued in the nick of time by Joey's dad Derek, who put himself at huge risk going within half a mile of a fire.

Just imagine if a spark had ignited the vapours from his Brylcreem – he'd have been toast, along with half of E19.

Katie wouldn't have trouble with my shaft

IT has been a dramatic few days on Emmerdale, with all eyes upon a deep and dangerous cavern where teams of burly men once toiled in relentless shifts.

But enough about the welcome return of Bernice's cleavage – Katie is stuck down a mine shaft!

The poor lass (right) fell down there during a quad bike chase with new husband Declan.

It was a bit like a scene from Mad Max (Beyond Thunderdome) but with more wax jackets and green wellies.

At first Declan did not bother calling 999, and who can blame him?

You know what Yorkshire police are like when it comes to anyone who goes down a mine. They would not have rescued her.

They would have done a quick baton charge, got their stories straight, then put in for eight hours overtime.

However, he eventually cottoned on to the fact that you cannot really do a mine rescue using only a rolled up Barbour and went for help.

Meanwhile, a cold, frightened and bleeding Katie is crawling around a maze of underground tunnels by the light of her Nokia Lumia.

What a nightmare, eh?

Just imagine not having an iPhone.

Actually, I'd love to know who her network provider is because at one point, despite being trapped in the bowels of the earth, she got two bars of signal. Which is two more bars than I can get in my sodding kitchen.

Sadly, she was unable to make a call because the battery died. I'll bet she regrets playing all those games of Snake now.

And above ground the community has rallied around, even holding a candlelit vigil in The Woolpack.

It feels a bit like when all those Chilean miners got stuck, with just one crucial difference – the world actually gave a shit about those guys getting rescued.

Frankly, it is dragging on a bit now. I wish they would either rescue her or just finish what Mrs Thatcher started – and close the pit for good.

Sorry to be so grumpy, but I'm just a bit annoyed that it was me who thought up this story but will not get any credit.

I have said for ages that if Katie was to go down any shaft, I'd like it to be mine.

● RICKY Hatton was not the only one staging a weird and pointless fight on Saturday night – The X Factor did "Motown versus Abba".

Oh yes, that well-known musical rivalry. It is like the old West Coast-East Coast rap wars, but with fewer drive-by shootings and more pickled fish.

I cannot imagine judge Louis Walsh knowing much about Motown, by the way he probably thinks Berry Gordy is a health drink.)

The acts did one song from each category, with Scouse crooner Christopher Maloney (above) murdering both Fernando and the Lionel Ritchie hit Dancing On The Ceiling.

The only way he should be dancing on the ceiling is when he eventually goes back on the cruise ships – and one capsizes.

BBC1 sitcom Me and Mrs Jones had a few decent moments but was stifled by the unwritten BBC rules which state that all fictional men (unless they are from a minority group) must be thick, lazy, sexist and ruled by their knobs.

That is offensive nonsense. We are nothing like that in real life.

By the way, here is a picture of Vera Filatova, who played...erm, I can't remember.

But in the last episode (top) she wrapped herself in clingfilm. Mmmmm.

● "I'M in a funny mood tonight," warned Bruce Forsyth on Strictly Come Dancing. Could have fooled me.

Time to put 'em away Madonna – and stay covered

TIME was when I'd have crawled naked over broken glass while smothered in honey and chased by wasps in return for the merest glimpse of Madonna's naughty bits.

When her Sex book first came out – the one resplendent with black and white "art" shots of the Madge Vadge – I was going through twice the amount of Savlon as your average third degree burns victim.

Before that the cover of her Material Girl album – a naked Madonna with just a purple silk sheet covering her treasured parts – was very probably the most spulched over image of the year.

When her "amateur" naked photos first emerged – pix she'd posed for when struggling to make ends meet when she was still just 19 – sales of man-sized tissues went through the roof. That she was an icon of a generation is in no doubt. Her spectacular music catalogue speaks for itself.

And the cascade of happy willy tears she's brought forth would no doubt fill a couple of Olympic swimming pools.

But I'm afraid it's time to hang up your conical bra, love.

The muscly arms, bulging veins and the sight of those leather knickers biting into your camel's toe actually make me feel a bit queasy.

Madonna... Fing old...

Fact is, like most men, I still haven't reached the stage where I choose to knock one out over a 54-year-old.

Not when the likes of Rihanna are out there wearing far less and as such are far more deserving of my gentlemen's relish.

Thanks for all the w*inks, Madge. Now put your fanny away and put the kettle on.

THIS WEEK IT'S...

DEE IVENS

DAZZLING Dee Ivens was once described as the prettiest and wittiest of the Page 3 girls.

Dee, now 43, remembers her modelling days fondly.

She recalled: "A lot of my friends were models and we hung out in all the fashionable places at the time – the Epping Forest Country Club, Stringfellows and Tramp.

"I travelled all over the world and had an amazing career."

She wowed tabloid fans for more than a decade before extending her career with a boob job.

After the boost in 1996 the Essex beauty said, "My new boobs make me feel like a new woman and have given my career a lift."

Dee had dropped a cup size after working as a fitness trainer in her spare time and insisted: "I decided I didn't want to live without boobs."

"I felt less womanly, less sexy. What's more my work was suffering. No one wants a model without good boobs."

By JUSTIN DUNN

justin@sundaysport.co.uk

Dee boosted her assets from a 34B to a curvy 34D.

With a sparkling personality and stunning looks, Dee went from strength to strength including spicing up Playboy TV Night Calls programme, where a host of gorgeous girls chat about their most intimate thoughts.

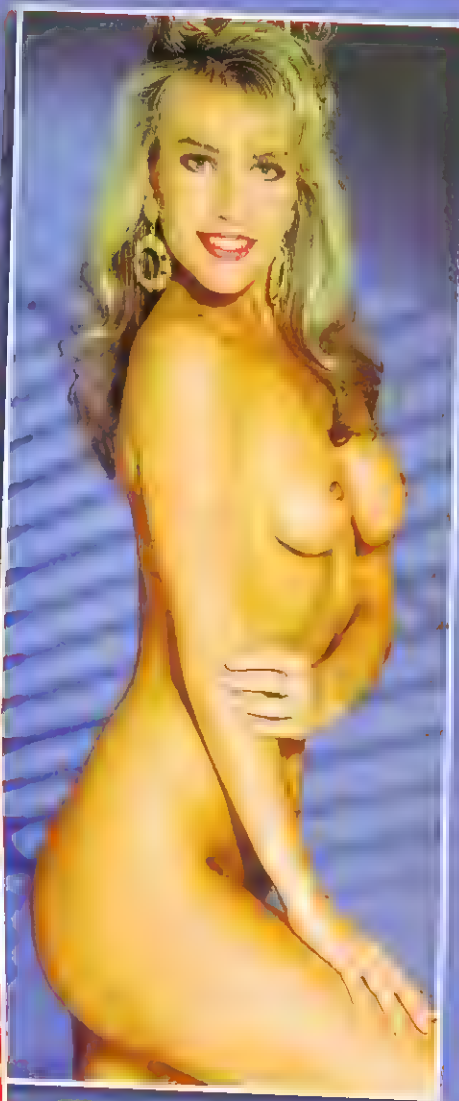

Marry

She continued her relationship with the small screen, appearing on Men and Motors and The Weakest Link Page Three special.

Dee stormed the early rounds but lost out in the end. She joked: "I'm pleased the money went to the RSPCA – it was dog eat dog out there and you couldn't move for bitches!"

After meeting comedian Terry Alderton on The Ian Wright Show, the pair fell in love and our Essex beauty went on to marry the National Lottery and London's Burning star.

Honeymoon sex sounds worker caged

A FORMER hotel worker has been jailed for recording the sound of newlyweds BONKING!

Jeremy Marg, 29, was caught after the couple found a digital recorder in their room.

The pair were in bed when they noticed that something had been slipped under the their honeymoon suite's door.

The groom called police, who found the gap under the door was larger than normal and that a recorder was lying on the hallway carpet.

In court, the prosecutor said the incident had caused the couple "extreme stress and strain".

Marg, who was convicted in 2002 of another sexual offence, pleaded guilty to interference with privacy, but chose not to explain his motives.

He lost his job as a clerk at 340 Hotel in St Paul, Minnesota and was caged for 90 days, from January 14.

Heavy metal 'energises' fitness fans

HEAVY METAL fans are brighter, more sociable and more sporty than followers of other music types, according to new research.

Tattooed rockers are usually dismissed as violent nutters – often left bleeding from mosh pit rumbles.

But a new survey by the British Phonographic Industry found Britain's metal fans are "highly educated" – with two thirds able to play an instrument.

Almost 80 per cent said they felt "energised" after listening to metal, with a quarter playing sport and a third regularly visiting the gym.

And nearly three quarters said that the music had helped them to get through a tough period in their life.

It's not all good news, though – as three quarters of the 3,700 people quizzed were unmarried with no children.

Sherlock moans over TV show's woman Watson

SHERLOCK star Benedict Cumberbatch has slammed rival telly show Elementary, saying he could 'never imagine' Dr Watson being played by a woman.

New Sky Living show Elementary sees actress Lucy Liu as Holmes' legendary sidekick in a modern updating of the tales that stars Johnny Lee Miller.

But BBC1's Benedict, 36, says he prefers a masculine Watson.

Speaking about his Sherlock co-star Martin Freeman, 41, Benedict revealed: "After working with Martin, I could never imagine Watson being a woman. Martin is established as Watson."

Gorgeous Charlie's Angels babe Lucy, 43, says she's 'proud' to be the first Watson with boobs. She said: "You have to be a pioneer and being a pioneer means doing things that are different and outside of the box."

"When you do stuff, it's not always to please other people. It's to please yourself."

Spooky calls are haunting coppers

OVER-STRETCHED cops are being called out to deal with zombies, ghosts and ALIENS, new research has revealed.

A Freedom of Information request by the Scottish Society for Psychical Research has lifted the lid on the bonkers 999 calls.

Strathclyde Police alone had registered 144 complaints about paranormal activity, with those figures thought to be similar all over the UK.

Ghost sightings accounted for 79 calls, 34 folks said they'd seen an alien in their home or garden, and six callers mentioned witches or warlocks to police.

One worried caller claimed they were being harassed by both ghosts AND zombies.

Tricia Robertson, secretary of the Scottish Society for Psychical Research charity, said: "There are many cases of paranormal activity."

ERIC CANTONA

WHEN it comes to kung fu, Eric Cantona is as deadly as Chuck Norris – just ask Matthew Simmons.

In 1995, the Manchester United striker was famously sent off for lashing out at Crystal Palace defender Richard Shaw.

But he reacted angrily to taunts from Simmons, who was in the crowd that night.

As he was making his way for an early bath, Eric leapt over the hoardings, aiming both feet at the Palace fan's chest and throwing several punches before police and stewards intervened.

Cantona, who claimed Simmons had shouted racist insults and thrown a missile at him, was convicted of assault.

As a result he was sentenced to 120-hours community service, fined £30,000, issued with an eight-month ban and stripped of the French captaincy.

And if his display of extreme violence wasn't crazy enough, at the news conference that followed his conviction, he issued one of the most utterly bonkers quotes ever.

Sardines

After taking his seat, he said: "When the seagulls follow the trawler, it is because they think sardines will be thrown into the sea," before getting up and leaving the room silent.

His behaviour may have shocked the world, but it wasn't all that surprising considering his past.

Legend has it that as a kid, Cantona lived with his family in a cave in hills over Marseille. The cave is rumoured to have been a look-out post for the German Army during World War II.

He began his professional career at Auxerre – where he impressed enough to earn a France cap. But it wasn't long before he was making headlines for all the wrong reasons, too.

In 1987, Cantona was fined for punching teammate Bruno Martini. And after signing for Marseille, in a friendly match he kicked the ball at the crowd, before ripping off and throwing away his shirt in response to being substituted.

Months earlier, he called the France boss a "bag of shit" on TV.

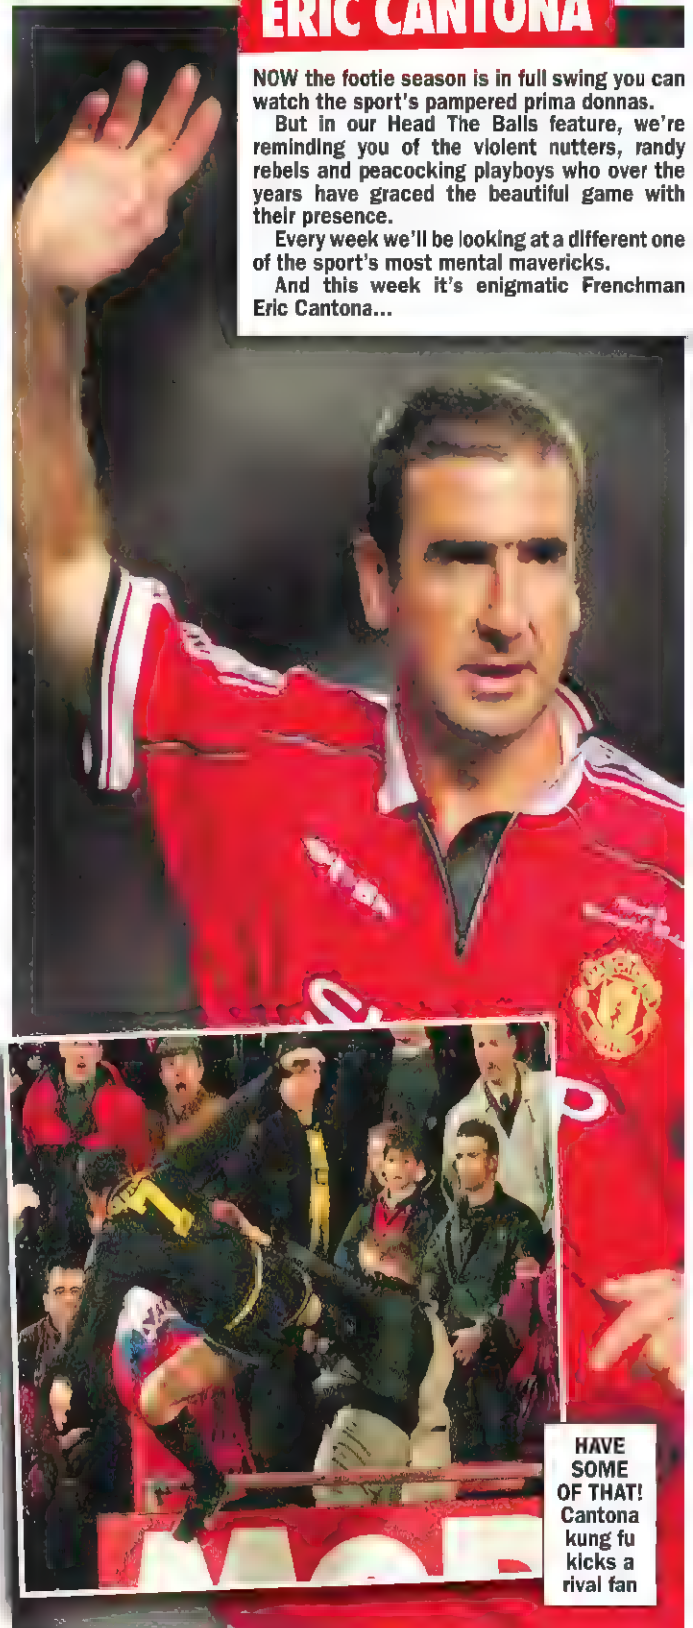

While on loan at Montpellier, Cantona was involved in another fight – this time with teammate Jean-Claude Lemoult.

During the scrap, he threw his boots in the midfielder's face. As a result, six players demanded that he be sacked, but instead, he was banned from the club for 10 days.

Cantona then signed for Nimes, but his problems became only more apparent.

In one game, angered by the referee's decision, he threw the ball at the official, and was summoned to a French Football Federation disciplinary hearing where he was given a one-month ban.

His response was to walk up to each committee member and call him an "idiot". Eventually, on the advice of a psychoanalyst, he moved to England.

Following a brief spell at Leeds – where he won the Premier League title – he signed for Man Utd and went on to win several more honours – becoming an Old Trafford legend in the process.

Save for the odd red card – and the kung fu incident – his spell in England was a huge success.

Since retiring in 1996 at the age of 30, Cantona's captained the France beach football team and forged a career as an actor.

He's now director of football at New York Cosmos in the US.

Last year, when asked what had been the highlight of his career, Eric said: "When I did the kung fu kick on the hooligan – because these kinds of people don't have to be at the game."

Freedom

"I think maybe it's like a dream for some – you know, sometimes to kick these kinds of people."

"So I did it for them. So they are happy. It's a kind of freedom for them."

"So I speak about that because maybe they felt it. Because they felt something special physically."

"Maybe it was a different feeling. It's a great feeling, but different."

THURSDAY NOVEMBER 29BOOBS ON THE BOX

Britain's only NAKED TV guide

with SIMON DEAN*Film4, 9pm, Hitman

YOU'LL remember Olga Kurylenko. She was gorgeous Bond girl in Quantum of Solace – where sadly she left her kit on. No such problems here though, at 45 mins, 51 mins and 57 mins. But be warned – you WILL make a mess.

Film4, 10.55pm, Kill List

IF Olga hasn't left you with friction burns, prepare for a frof fest at 1hr 29 mins when Laura Evans appears fully frontally naked. Sadly there's a middle aged fella's todger on display, too.

Film4 12.55am Don't Look Know

FOR God's sake DO look at around half an hour and he rewarded with a fantastic look at Julie Christie's boobs – and snatch!

WHAT'S YOUR FAVOURITE SEXUAL POSITION?

Doggy style. I think it feels better than any other position - and you get deeper penetration. Plus I love having my bum played with and spanked so that's two turn-ons in one. And, come on, it's fantastic for the guy too.

WHAT'S YOUR BIGGEST TURN-ON?

Kissing - when you're just warming up for a good session. That really turns me on. I like having my arse cheeks and thighs squeezed and slapped really hard - I love a bit of roughness.

WHAT ARE YOU LIKE IN BED?

I'm quite experimental and up for most things - I've never had any complaints! I like to be thrown about a bit and am quite submissive. I like the man to take charge and be a real dominant male.

IS ANYTHING OFF LIMITS IN THE BEDROOM?

No, not really - how do you know you don't like something if you never try it? I'll give anything a go once.

WHAT'S YOUR BIGGEST KINK?

Sex in public places. It can backfire though. I got caught having sex in the cinema once. I was on a date with an ex-boyfriend and we started kissing on the back row. We were really horny and there were only a few other people around - they were all sat at the front. One thing led to another and the next minute we're going at it on the floor.

WHAT HAPPENED?

My boyfriend was lying down between the rows of chairs and I was on top of him - completely naked. All of a sudden a security guard shone a torch in my face and told us to get out. I had my bum in the air - it was the most embarrassing moment of my life. The bloke carried on watching us while we put our clothes back on in the torch light. I was petrified I was going to be arrested for indecent exposure!

DOES THE RISK OF GETTING CAUGHT OUT TURN YOU ON?

Oh yes - definitely. It's part of the appeal for me. It's OK if someone is watching from afar - that's quite horny. But if someone gets in your face and tells you to stop, well that's just really embarrassing. Once, after a night out, I ended up skinny-dipping in the sea and then shagging on the rocks by the beach. I'd had a few drinks, which always gets me going. Half way through, a bloke walked past with his dog - it was about 1am. I have to laugh - he was definitely enjoying it, but pretending not to look at us!

HAVE YOU EVER HAD A LESBIAN EXPERIENCE?

A bit - I've snogged a lot of girl mates and had a bit of a fumble. But nothing below the waist. Never say never though!

ANY CELEB GIRL CRUSHES?

The actress Scarlett Johansson - she's so curvy and gorgeous. She's got a killer body and AMAZING lips. Plus, I think she's got a really naughty side.

WHAT'S YOUR BEST ASSET?

My boobs - definitely. I like it when people compliment me on them, because they're completely natural. People always ask if I've had a boob job - they're fascinated when I tell them they're all mine. They'll ask if they can poke them or squeeze them. If it's a girl, it's all good, and I'll let her have a feel. Or if it's a really hot guy!

WHAT'S YOUR BIGGEST TURN-OFF?

Someone who's bad at kissing and doesn't know how to use their hands properly. It's rubbish when a guy can't handle you, or when he doesn't last very long. I like a man with stamina! It's all about the foreplay, boys - it really gets me heated up and should NOT be forgotten.

DO BLONDES REALLY HAVE MORE FUN?

No way! I've been blonde and I've been brunette. And I can assure you that brunettes DEFINITELY have more fun. Guys expect brunettes to be boring and they're surprised when you show your wild side - we're more of a dark horse. And I always love surprising people.

THE LOWDOWN

FAVOURITE TIME OF DAY?

Early hours - I love being woken up by a guy, rolling over and getting straight into it!

HOW MANY TIMES A DAY?

Three or four times a day - the more the merrier.

CELEBRITY CRUSH?

Bradley Cooper - he's gorgeous in my favourite movie The Hangover.

BEST SHAG

On the beach in Wales - it was so intense.

WORST SHAG

My first time - I didn't fancy the guy at all.

Sexy Suzi slams 'too sexy' stars

SEVENTIES sex siren Suzi Quatro has blasted today's female pop stars, labelling them 'PORN STARS'.

The Can The Can singer, famous for appearing nude on the cover of her 1995 album Almost Naked, has criticized modern stars such as Lady Gaga for dressing like 'sex objects'.

Suzi, 62, ranted: "Now they seem to be nearly nude, and I think that the videos are borderline porn."

"I can't even pick one out, they're all like soft porn now."

"I watch the music channels occasionally to see what's going on, and those kind of performances leave me a bit cold. That whole gyrating, sexual bit I find dull."

The leather catsuit-wearing warbler proclaimed that U.S. singer Gaga is the worst offender, and even offered her advice on the Love Games hit maker's wardrobe.

Suzi (above) said: "If it was Lady Gaga, I'd say, 'What the hell are you doing with your image? How can anyone take you seriously?'"

Cig excuse is blow the belt

A WOMAN caught GOBBLING a bloke told cops she was looking for her fags - in his crotch!

Police swooped on Karnesha Nantz after receiving a tip-off that a couple were shagging in a van.

According to officers, the 32-year-old's face was nestled in the crotch of Jackie Fisher, 78, but as soon as she became aware of their presence, she hastily tried to zip up his trousers.

When questioned, Nantz at first claimed she had been trying to locate cigarettes she'd dropped in the elderly fella's nether regions, before eventually admitting she was sucking him off.

She told police she'd met Fisher a few days earlier when he'd given her a lift to buy drugs.

Nantz and Fisher were arrested for disorderly conduct in Stuart, Florida.

Agony

- Your sex problems solved

Dear Olivia,

THE wife's sister recently split up with her hubby and we invited her to stay with us

We've always got on well and it was great having her around, especially on the night when we went to the pub, then got an Indian takeaway and went back home.

Having scoffed the lot and downed a couple of bottles of wine, the wife went to bed leaving me with her sister.

That was fine as she told me all about her waster of a husband's shortcomings.

As she wept she cuddled up to me and, to my amazement, grabbed my knob through my jeans and was soon giving me a gobble.

This happened again the next time we had a takeaway - Chinese - and all was well until the wife appeared at the door.

Stiff

But instead of tearing a strip off me she joined and I ended up shagging 'em both.

What a thrill it was - I've always dreamed of having a threesome.

I had the missus sitting on my face while her sis rode my stiff rod.

They then swapped positions before I deposited my load on their faces.

But the next day the wife thought better of it and ordered her sister out of the house.

I almost went with her. Do you think I should have done it?

WS, Norfolk

Olivia says:

NO. Count your blessings that you still have one game girl at home.

WITH OLIVIA RABANAL 22, 360-24-34 FROM COLCHESTER

WORKMATES SLAG ME OFF AS A NYMPHO

Dear Olivia,

I AM a 26-year-old woman and I have just split from my lover after I found out he was cheating on me with my best friend.

Since then I have had loads of men in my bed. In fact, I must have had about a dozen lovers in the past three months.

The first was a mutual friend who goes to the same pub as me and my ex.

I'd never fancied him before but when I went in that night I made a bee-line for him and ended up taking him back to my place.

Moist

Once inside I told him to strip off and I went down on him - sucking and nibbling his cock as he sat totally gob-smacked on the sofa.

I teased him by bringing him to the brink of ejaculating in my throat before jumping to my feet.

I slipped my clothes off and began rubbing my nipples and fanny, gently inserting two fingers into my moist pussy.

Then I bent over a coffee table, spread my thighs wide and urged him to take me from behind.

Seconds later he was thrusting deep into me doggy-style and he kept going until I climaxed.

He wasn't finished, though, so I got down on my knees and gobbled his length again.

I rubbed his shaft until I felt his balls tighten, and then directed his man juice all over my boobs.

The next day I felt ashamed of my behaviour but when I rang a girlfriend and told her, she said I had every right to have fun.

That made me determined to have as many blokes as I wanted. It was just the start.

I'm now worried that I've turned into some kind of nympho and I just can't seem to get enough nookie.

But the other day I heard two work colleagues talking about me.

One said I was a slag and added that she would not trust me around her fella.

This upset me and now I'm in a fix because, although I enjoy sleeping around, I don't want to end up with a reputation.

Any advice?

KT, Barnsley

Olivia says:

IF you were a fella, you would be a hero. Don't listen to your workmates - they're just jealous. But be sure that all these guys you're laying take proper precautions!

Throat

I moaned with pleasure as she undid my flies and gently w*anked my cock before she dropped to her knees and sucked my dick to the back of her throat.

I could feel the pressure building in my balls so I pulled her up, bent her over an armchair and lifted her skirt. Her arse looked just as good as I had imagined in a white G-string, which I pulled aside as I licked her pussy.

The aroma of her love juices got me very horny so I thrust my nine-incher deep into her moist fanny.

We came together, which just goes to show that manners maketh a rattling good f! What do you say?

OP, Devon

Olivia says:

YOU have a point. But I'm not convinced it was just because you held the door open for her - she'd probably heard about your nine-incher!

Dear Olivia,

MY husband and I spotted the woman opposite walking around her lounge naked.

We watched her stroke her pussy and I couldn't contain myself.

I grabbed my hubby and we ended up shagging like mad. Now we regularly watch her strip show. Are we kinky?

HJ, Baisingsstoke

Olivia says:

A BIT - but you sound as if you don't care.

Dear Olivia,

I'VE been having sex with my neighbour's son for the last six months. I'm 38 and he's 18.

I prefer younger men as they can keep up with me in bed, unlike my husband who is 44.

This lad says he can't get enough of my big tits and he loves me sucking his cock before he shoots his spunk all over my chest.

He usually pops over in the afternoon because, as a student, he has loads of free time.

Last week, though, he was shagging me doggy-style when my husband came home early from work.

But fortunately he went straight out again down to the pub.

Nearly being found out has shocked me and I'm wondering if I should end this affair.

What do you think?

CV, Herts

Olivia says:

WHY not shag him somewhere else, like a hotel?

Manners do maketh a great shag

Dear Olivia,

I AM an office worker and a new girl started with us recently.

She's an olive-skinned stunna and all the blokes were trying it on with her - but with no success.

Then one day I was walking into the building when I spotted her just behind me so I held the door open for her.

She said it was nice to meet a young fella with manners and asked me what the catch was.

I cheekily told her that it was so I could get a close-up look at her arse and instead of slapping my face, she giggled.

Not one to let an opportunity pass, I asked her if she fancied a drink that night and she said yes.

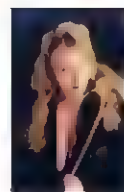

To cut a long story short, we ended up at her place and she was all over me like a rash.

Her hand went straight to my crotch as she rubbed my growing erection.

BRITAIN'S NO.1 ASTROLOGER WRITES FOR

MIDWEEK
SportYOUR STARS
WITH JUSTIN TOPER

CAPRICORN (22 Dec - 19 Jan): A FAMILY celebration is in order and what is happening could turn out to be a dream move. Ultimately however, you are responsible for making sure that everything goes smoothly. Bear in mind that today's Full Moon is supposed to present you with an assignment that is hard work and that you are expected to be dynamic, even though you probably feel tired or run down. Stay the course, because the changes taking place will be the making of you.

LEO (23 Jul - 22 Aug): THIS should be a time of emotionally uplifting developments and when seldom have you felt happier. To some extent this is true, but there is no doubt that your loyalty and devotion will be put to the test. At least you know who your real friends are, though you may have to resolve a tricky situation. A third party will certainly create some fun and games. And yet what happens is just as much about betrayal as it is about envy. No wonder others are jealous of you.

AQUARIUS (20 Jan - 18 Feb): A RECENT meeting or chance encounter should have lifted your spirits and no doubt it is others doing all the chasing. But for you today's Full Moon in Gemini stresses matters close to your heart and it seems that you are smack in the middle or caught up in an awkward situation emotionally. Given that you have an important personal decision to make, you must not abandon your principles. What you should do is enjoy all the attention that comes your way.

VIRGO (23 Aug - 22 Sep): BOTH property and professional matters are well starred and that the figure you are expecting could well swell the coffers or make you more financially comfortable. Apart from that, today's Full Moon in Gemini is likely to affect your status, though you are probably aware of some potential dangers or are wondering if heads will roll. But some kind of personal success or acceptance is assured, despite the fact that your fiercest critics will dredge up some unresolved business.

PISCES (19 Feb - 20 Mar): IN many ways, you should be very much alive and thriving. What's more, you should gain access to resources that were not available before or some kind of material success is assured. Even so, today's Full Moon suggests that the family, among others, are not suitably impressed and there may be a few objections if you attempt to make a major move. A home coming is also indicated, but surprisingly this is the real piece de resistance.

LIBRA (23 Sep - 22 Oct): THIS should be one of the most exciting and enjoyable times you have known – and still will be, even though for some reason you may feel stuck or displaced. Either way, because today's Full Moon takes place in the travel sector of your chart, you are not likely to be at a loose end or in limbo for much longer. No doubt news received from near or afar is impossible to ignore. In fact, your response will affirm how determined you are to be free. From what or whom is the question.

ARIES (21 Mar - 19 Apr): A RECENT link between the Sun and Uranus in Aries seems to have added a sparkle to your affairs and plan in general. This does not mean that everything will go entirely smoothly and further delays or disruptions are possible today. This also applies if you are trying to arrange a return visit or undertake a journey and that there are indirect influence that could leave you dangling. As it is, one meeting might change everything, even if things become a bit heated at times.

SCORPIO (23 Oct - 21 Nov): THIS has to be a rewarding and reassuring time and after endless meetings or prolonged negotiations you should get a result now. True, you may feel a bit bruised and battered, though you can expect further protection and promises today. For you, the Full Moon in Gemini stresses what you share with others and how your lifestyle could change is nobody's business. Simply that it is better to give than receive. A small windfall should compensate and you're not the only recipient.

TAURUS (20 Apr - 20 May): THERE could be some red tape or bureaucratic challenges to overcome. Nevertheless, you couldn't wish for a better time to clinch a deal or reach an important agreement, even if negotiations have come to a stalemate. This is still likely to be a day when money changes hands and you are afforded the opportunity to add to your security. Of course, there are other reasons why you might be spending like there's no tomorrow. What you acquire is better than treasure.

SAGITTARIUS (22 Nov - 21 Dec): ATTENTION must be paid to your personal or love life, even though you should be feeling the joy of getting closer to certain people. However, all forms of partnerships are stressed by the Full Moon in your opposite sign of Gemini and a lot of restraint is required today. Hiding your emotions won't work and that it seems that a final commitment is needed. Still, this should be far less devastating than you imagined. In fact, you will do so wholeheartedly.

GEMINI (21 May - 20 Jun): ONCE again, partners or close companions are inclined to shock and tease and no doubt you are still reeling by what occurred earlier in the week. However, because today's Full Moon takes place in Gemini, it seems that you are about to spring a few surprises of your own. Not only that, but what you decide is bound to affect the course of one relationship. Chances are, your desire to win someone will prove a turning point and something you have been fantasizing about.

CANCER (21 Jun - 22 Jul): BY rights, you should be back on form and back in business, even though for some reason you may have to make a break from the past today. More likely, you have won an important battle – which does not mean everyone will be gracious in defeat. At the same time, there is something wonderful going on behind the scenes and it can only be discussed in private. What totally exists and what is a complete fallacy is suddenly about to be revealed.

HAS JUSTIN BEEN SPOT ON WITH YOUR STARS – HE WAS FOR THESE READERSTELL US: TOPER@SUNDAYSPORT.CO.UK

WOW, Justin, you are brilliant! I'm an Aquarius and last week you said there would be a major alteration at work but it would be for the best.

Well, you were right. I have been stuck in a rut for a while but changes at the top mean I have a chance of promotion.

Patricia, Brighton, Aquarius

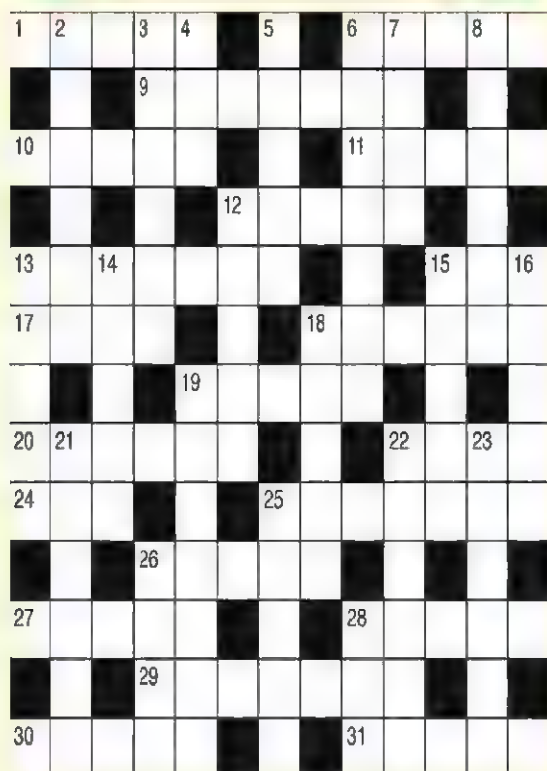

MY birthday is October 5, which makes me a Libra. The other week you said I needed to take stock of things around me, rather than look further afield.

So I have made a real effort to appreciate everyday life and it's has been great. You have shown me the way, Justin. Thanks.

Terry, Llandudno, Libra

Oh boy, Lewis can't keep his mind on game

ADRIAN LEWIS is facing an anxious wait ahead of the Cash Converters Players Championship Finals on Friday – with his wife Sarah due to give birth to a baby boy.

The world champion (above) is set to become a father for the second time, but his preparations for the £250,000 event at Butlin's Minehead have been overshadowed by his missus' pregnancy.

Lewis crashed out in the group stage at the Grand Slam of Darts two weeks ago and admits that his focus has been off the oche recently.

"It's the biggest thing on my mind at the minute and I'm on tenterhooks," said the 27-year-old star, who is due to face Richie Burnett in the first round on Friday night.

"It's been hard staying focused recently and I'm waiting for the phone call every time I'm away at a tournament.

"I want him to come before the Players Championship Finals start, because I don't want to be down at Minehead waiting and then get the call to come back."

Lewis has won only one European Tour event since he opened 2012 by winning the World Championship for a second successive year and partnered Phil Taylor (below) to World Cup glory.

"It's been frustrating for me," added Lewis.

"After the disappointment of the last six months it's important I do well in Minehead."

"Going into the Grand Slam my form was coming back well and then I think the short format did for me in Wolverhampton."

"I've got plenty of years ahead of me and I'm learning all the time – I want to get up on stage this weekend and win it."

NEW ZEALAND fly-half Dan Carter is surprised by England's lack of progress after 2003 when he recalls them "teaching us a lesson".

Since losing 15-13 in Wellington nine years ago to Sir Clive Woodward's team – who went on to lift the World Cup – the All Blacks have won all nine meetings between the rivals.

They go head to head again at Twickenham on Saturday and Carter said: "Yes I'm surprised England haven't done more since 2003. They were in their prime at that time and taught us a lesson at home. 'They've got the players, so talent's not an issue'."

In-form Finn can bowl out struggling Stu

OUT-OF-FORM vice-captain Stuart Broad may face a battle to retain his place as England eye their biggest challenge yet in India.

Pace bowler Broad (above) was passed fit despite suffering a virus on the eve of the second Test – and then played well short of his best in a match dominated by spin and famously won by England to level the four-match series at 1-1.

Alastair Cook's tourists have a realistic ambition again to become the first from England to win a series in India since 1984-85.

Their next stop is Kolkata on December 5 and, with Steven Finn (below) recovering from a thigh strain to take four wickets for the England Performance Programme in Mumbai, Broad's place is far from guaranteed.

He has taken 40 Test wickets this calendar year, but none for 157 in two matches on tour.

"There's a little bit of an issue, there's no doubt about it," admitted bowling coach David Saker.

"Stuart hasn't bowled as we would have liked, and he'd be the first to admit that."

"He's not the first bowler to come over here and find it hard.

"The great fast bowlers have had success over here."

"Stuart's probably not a great yet. He has to learn ways to become great – it's a learning time for him."

Saker insisted: "To win a series in India is as big as any challenge."

"Even the great Australia teams came over here and found it so difficult."

"For any Test team, I think this is the biggest challenge to win over here."

"We've set our sights to do it – and we hope we can do it."

CUTTING THROUGH THE BULLSHIT EVERY WEEK

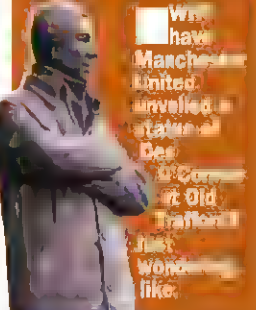

This was the most hate-filled hello from fans to their own manager in living memory

"I'm maybe a bit too intelligent to be a footballer," says Joey Barton, whose last act in English football was to get sent off playing for QPR at Manchester City, attack two players and cost a 12-match ban. Meanwhile, Marseille, he is answering questions in English with a FRENCH ACCENT. You have to learn the language. Joey, no doubt, is a decent bloke.

Wolves have Manchester United unveiled a statue of Des O'Connell at Old Trafford. Just wondering like.

SORRY Chelsea fans, but you really haven't thought this one through.

Singing "F off, Benitez?" Booring your own manager? Way to go.

When the stadium announcer read out the attendance at Stamford Bridge and followed it by thanking fans "for their support", he must have been stroking his chin while crossing his fingers.

If that's support, what can Rafa Benitez expect when the Chelsea crowd turns nasty? You'd be forgiven for thinking the reincarnation of Jimmy Savile had walked into Stamford Bridge and promised to play the kids.

This is a manager who twice wrestled the La Liga title from the heavyweight grasp of Barcelona and Real Madrid as boss of Valencia. He also won the UEFA Cup there.

At Liverpool he won the Champions League with players like Djimi Traore and Igor Biscan. He reached another European Cup final, won the FA Cup and was four points away from winning the title.

Despite the shit-flinging from many hacks, he's no dope. Given half a chance, perhaps he could inspire Chelsea to close the five-point gap between them and league leaders Man United.

Yet the Chelsea faithful greeted their new manager with an avalanche of shit.

This was the most hate-filled hello from fans to their own manager in living memory. And for what? You can hardly blame Benitez for taking a top job after almost two years out of the game.

If Chelsea fans have an issue with the decision to sack Roberto Di Matteo and replace him with Benitez, why don't they aim their ire at the man who made the call?

It was Roman Abramovich who ultimately kicked the stool to hang Di Matteo and it was the Russian who lured the Spaniard to west London.

He might be worth £8.4billion but he makes mistakes just like everyone else.

Benitez is already being touted by The Shed End as being one of his biggest. But is it any worse than replacing Jose Mourinho with Avram Grant?

It's ridiculous Abramovich is bomb-proof. Yes, his bullion has given Chelsea things they thought they'd never see.

But it's worth remembering that in the five years before he arrived at the club, Chelsea had never finished outside the top six and had won the FA Cup, the League Cup, the Cup Winners' Cup and the Super Cup. They were hardly in the football wilderness.

What is a mistake is naming Benitez as "interim manager". It just adds to the pressure.

The fans know he's a stop-gap and the players know it too. It's a ready-made excuse should it all go Pete Tong.

The masterplan is to tempt Pep Guardiola to Chelsea – probably the most coveted manager in world football.

But even for £15m a year, the former Barca man must be asking himself why he would want to walk into such a poisonous atmosphere.

Chelsea fans might think they're hanging a hate figure out to dry by booing Benitez. Abramovich probably sees his appointment as a symbol of his authority.

Yet all both fans and owner have done is serve up yet more evidence that this is a club to be avoided.

COCKSURE: Mancini's side has got a swagger after winning trophies, says Martinez (below)

'Arrogant' City now know they are winners

ROBERTO MARTINEZ says Man City are an arrogant bunch since they won the title – and the Wigan boss is all for it.

Martinez believes the Blues' new winning mentality makes the champions an even tougher proposition this season.

Martinez expects a City swagger at the DW Stadium tonight as they bid to extend their unbeaten league record to 14 games.

He said: "The hardest thing when you take over a team is to give them that winning mentality."

"A couple of teams have it through years of success. City are getting that now from winning trophies – especially the Premier League."

"They are starting to show that winning mentality and that means they don't have to play as well as they used to for the majority of the game to get a result.

WIGAN v MANCHESTER CITY

Live on Sky Sports 2 – Kick-off 8pm

"I call that mentality arrogance, but in a good way, and I encourage my young players to try to develop that. Having a football arrogance gives you points."

"Sometimes you don't have to play better because you ARE a winning team – City are winners. Every time you face them you have to be prepared for that."

"We have a winning mentality in a different way."

"We win our own title every time we reach our own aim – eight seasons in the Premier League is a big achievement."

City manager Roberto Mancini's No.2 David Platt claims he knew that teenage centre-half Matija Nastasic (inset) would be able to handle the Premier League when he coped with Andy Carroll at West Ham.

The 19-year-old Serb – signed in the summer from Fiorentina – has made such an impact he is keeping England regular Joleon Lescott out of the team.

Platt revealed: "He has had to get used to English football but a really good performance where it might have been a bit alien to him was at West Ham."

"You knew the ball was coming in, they were hitting the diagonal balls towards Carroll, and I thought that he acquitted himself exceptionally well."

"You get a lot in the Premier League that you don't get in Serie A and it shows there is an old head on young shoulders to adapt to that."

Baggies in Europe is Clarke's new target

SWANSEA v WEST BROM

STEVE CLARKE has refused to rule West Brom out of the Champions League reckoning after vowing: "I want to go even higher."

Third-placed Baggies have been the Premier League's surprise package this term in a sensational start to Clarke's managerial career.

They head to Swansea bidding for a fifth win on the spin after making their best top flight start since 1953.

Clarke admits no-one is expecting his unfancied team to last the pace, but insists they can get even better.

He said: "I think there's more to come. If we don't believe that we might as well give up."

"I want to be better, I want to be higher in the league, I want to do as well as I can in this job and the players are the same."

"They want to be as successful as they can be and if we drive each other on, that's great."

"If you ask around, 95 per cent of people in football would say West Brom wouldn't be in the top three come the end of the season. Let's see."

Grumpy

Clarke has previously insisted reaching the 40-point mark is his only concern and described himself as "mildly happy" after Saturday's win at Sunderland.

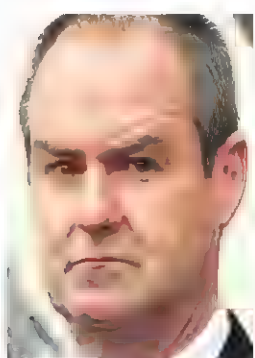

But he added: "I don't think I'm a grumpy person. I can be quite serious at times because it is a serious business."

Swans defender Angel Rangel insists their recent revival has rubbished rumours of a dressing room revolt against boss Michael Laudrup.

They have now been defeated only once in the seven games since the stories emerged.

Rangel said: "Two months ago people were talking about unrest in the squad, but I think we've shown that was all wrong."

"Everyone is happy with everyone – on the inside we have always known there was no unrest. As players we were motivated because we wanted to show that it was all talk."

RAFA: I WON'T SAY I'M SORRY!

Benitez refuses to apologise for his Blues blasts when he was Kop chief

By IAN WINROW

RAFA BENITEZ insists he will NOT apologise to Chelsea fans for the comments he made about the club when he was Liverpool boss.

Benitez became a hate figure for Blues fans when he was in charge at Anfield and fuelled a war of words with Jose Mourinho.

That has ensured he has been given a rough ride after being put in interim charge of Chelsea. Fans groups have vowed to ramp up their protests at the Spaniard's appointment during tonight's clash with Fulham.

And Benitez has been urged to say sorry to help put the feud behind the club.

But he said: "The problem is we can analyse what I said and didn't say – we can't be checking if it's true or not. I'll try my best to win their trust. That's it."

"When you have a player who doesn't have the support of the fans, I'd tell him to stay focused and try to do his job. Don't be distracted – concentrate on your game.

"I understand the feelings of the fans because of my time at Liverpool, where we had a rivalry and it was quite difficult.

"But at the same time I will try to prove I'm here for the right reasons.

"We want to win and we can do that together. I'll try to improve players, then it will be easier to win games and bring the fans back."

Benitez will attempt to turn things around on the pitch – and he insists he is not under orders to entertain at all costs from owner Roman Abramovich.

Balance

He added: "I have spent some time with Roman and we were not talking about the 'Barcelona style'.

"He knows that we don't have Messi, Xavi, Iniesta – players who have been working together for years. We have different players. I think we can play attacking and defensive football.

"But we have to find the balance."

Fulham boss Martin Jol is under no illusion his side still faces a tough test, despite all the palava at the Bridge at present.

He said: "You could say it's a nice time to play Chelsea but, on the other hand, it's the second game under Benitez so I feel it is a must-win game for them. They will have to win or it will be problematic."

With battles still raging in the stands, Chelsea tried to address another controversial issue last night by expressing regrets over their handling of the complaint of racist abuse against referee Mark Clattenburg.

The FA decided last week to take no action against Clattenburg after a probe into the club's allegation that he used "inappropriate language" against John Obi Mikel.

A statement read: "The club regrets not having given more consideration before issuing a statement on the evening of Sunday, October 28. The club also regrets the subsequent impact the intense media scrutiny had on Mark Clattenburg and his family."

IT'S A RAF RIDE: Benitez has been hit with a barrage of abuse following his appointment as Chelsea boss

Bunn bow is no drama for Hughton

SOUTHAMPTON
v NORWICH

NORWICH boss Chris Hughton has backed reserve keeper Mark Bunn to shine if he has to play at St Mary's tonight.

The Canaries are sweating on the fitness of England glovesman John Ruddy, who is struggling with a thigh injury.

But Hughton insisted: "We would have no worries at all about bringing in Mark."

"When we brought him in originally that was the exact reason – because of his experience."

Former Blackburn No.2 Bunn replaced Ruddy for the final eight minutes of Saturday's 1-1 draw at Everton.

That result meant Norwich are unbeaten in their last seven games but Saints are also buzzing.

Back-to-back wins over Queens Park Rangers and Newcastle means Nigel Adkins' side is no longer in the drop zone.

Midfielder Adam Lallana said: "We had a tough start but we are adjusting to the standard and it is showing by the results we're getting."

Warnock just wants to be dug by Doug

BLACKBURN v BOLTON

STEPHEN WARNOCK aims to pile the misery on former club Blackburn – so he can extend his stay at Bolton.

Warnock, signed by Owen Coyle on loan from Aston Villa, admits his future has been plunged into doubt following the arrival of new manager Dougie Freedman.

The former Liverpool defender is due to return to Villa Park just before Christmas. But Warnock is desperate to stay with the Trotters and knows victory over Blackburn will help his cause.

Warnock, who made 88 league starts in two-and-a-half-years at Rovers, said: "I haven't got a clue about my future. I'd definitely like to stay because I have enjoyed my time here."

Blackburn boss Henning Berg is demanding his troops bounce back from Saturday's miserable 2-0 home defeat to Millwall.

Berg said: "It's good that we have a game so soon."

"We know we can play better than we did against Millwall and that is what we intend to do against Bolton."

RESPONSIBILITY: Gerrard

GERRARD'S
STILL DADDY
ON THE KOPTOTTENHAM v
LIVERPOOL

BRENDAN RODGERS reckons Steven Gerrard's "father figure" role in Liverpool's young side could be behind his lack of goals this season.

The Kop skipper has only found the net twice in 20 appearances for the Reds this term.

The England midfielder, 32, is a veteran compared to 17-year-old Raheem Sterling and Andre Wisdom, 19.

And Reds manager Rodgers believes Gerrard's eagerness to protect the youngsters could be preventing him from boosting his goals tally.

He said: "Steven over the years has always been the player who makes the difference.

"Okay, he may not have had the goals this season that he has wanted, but he's still being effective.

"He has had to take on more responsibility because it is a much younger group.

"There is a bit more responsibility on him in relation to looking out more for the team because of the younger players."

Smashed

Tottenham chief Andre Villas-Boas reckons Jermain Defoe is as good as Radamel Falcao – and insists his striker is NOT for sale.

Defoe has smashed in 10 goals for Spurs this season and is back on Harry Redknapp's radar at QPR.

Last season he was close to joining Liverpool, but AVB will not consider any bids for him now.

"It's impossible for him to go," said the Spurs boss. "He's one of the best strikers I've worked with.

"His hunger for goal is extreme. That pleases you as a manager."

Villas-Boas worked with Falcao at Porto along with Brazil hitman Hulk – and he rates Defoe as good as them all.

He added: "You need players to unlock games and make the most of opportunities.

"I certainly had that with Falcao and Jermain is the same. It's these moments of brilliance that can turn games."

impact at Old Trafford.

RUUD VAN NISTELROOY is convinced the title will be back in Man United's trophy room next May – as long as Robin van Persie keeps up his flying start.

Former Old Trafford goal machine Van Nistelrooy can't help but admire the way fellow Dutch hotshot Van Persie has started life at United.

RVP has netted 11 times for Sir Alex Ferguson's men since arriving from Arsenal in August.

That has helped United establish a slender one-point lead at the top of the table, and they could extend that by overcoming West Ham tonight.

MANCHESTER UNITED v WEST HAM

Van Nistelrooy, netted an incredible 95 goals in 150 league appearances for United but has recently retired from playing.

He said: "I'm happy I've hung up my boots and now I can enjoy watching Van Persie play.

"I spoke to him a while ago and congratulated him on his fantastic start. It feels like he has been at United forever.

"He got his first goal quickly and hasn't stopped since, so hopefully it will continue. I think he fits in really well at the club.

"If he can keep going like this through the whole season then I can see them landing another title."

United are without Nani (hamstring) while Antonio Valencia is doubtful with a hip problem and Paul Scholes is suspended.

Frosty

Wayne Rooney has urged his team-mates to pay special attention to Andy Carroll tonight.

The £35m striker – on loan at West Ham from Liverpool – is bound to get a frosty reception from the Old Trafford faithful.

But after working with the 23-year-old during Euro 2012, Rooney knows just how effective the big striker can be.

He said: "Andy is a real handful. I am sure if you ask any defender, they find it difficult to play against someone like that who is good in the air and on the floor.

"He is physical and makes it hard for opponents.

"That type of player doesn't always get all the goals but they can cause trouble.

"I am sure that is what Sam Allardyce wants him to do."

WINDOW
BE GUIDE
FOR MOYESEVERTON v
ARSENAL

EVERTON boss David Moyes is planning to see what the club does in the January transfer window before pledging his future to Goodison Park.

Moyes is desperate for the Toffees hang on to key assets Leighton Baines and Marouane Fellaini.

Manchester United are eyeing a move for left-back Baines when the window opens. And Fellaini has been linked with Chelsea, as well as tonight's opponents Arsenal.

Everton boss Moyes is out of contract next summer. But the long-serving Scot plans to hang on until the New Year before deciding his future.

Moyes said: "I will wait until we've got over January and see how things go.

"I want to see what we're going to do and where the club is looking to move in the future."

Gunnery boss Arsene Wenger has launched a passionate defence of his reign and shrugged off jeers from his own supporters.

Reaction

Arsenal boo-boys turned on Wenger at the weekend during the goalless draw at Aston Villa.

And they will make themselves heard again tonight if the run of one Premier League win in four gets worse when they travel to Everton.

But the Frenchman said: "We don't give too much importance to those fans' reaction.

"Our job is somewhere else – to give our best on the pitch.

"Extreme opinions are picked and sold like a majority.

"That means those who shout the loudest are usually presented because they are easy to sell.

"But they do not always represent the majority opinion."

Wenger revealed his admiration for Everton midfielder Fellaini, who returns from suspension.

He said: "He looks like he will finish. He is using well his body.

"But he is not a dirty player – he is an intelligent player."

CHARLIE'S AD HUGE IMPACT

STOKE v NEWCASTLE

CHARLIE ADAM insists Stoke are no longer a bunch of hoofers now he's arrived at the club.

The ex-Liverpool midfielder, 26, has scored the winner in each of his side's last two home games.

And he can't wait to take on Toon after helping change the Potters' style of play.

Adam (left) said: "Since I have been here, we've mixed it up well. We have played back to front at times, but we have also played through midfield, passing it.

"We are in a situation now where we can play both ways." Assistant boss Dave Kemp said: "We used to be a bit of a one-trick pony but Charlie gives us a chance to play in a different way."

Newcastle boss Alan Pardew has confirmed that he could be without Steven Taylor and Yohan Cabaye until February.

Central-half Taylor damaged a hamstring during Sunday's 2-0 Premier League defeat at Southampton. Meanwhile, France midfielder Cabaye is expected to undergo a second groin operation in the next 24 hours.

When asked about Taylor, Pardew said: "It's about six to eight weeks, so it's another blow. We are in a run of bad luck."

He added: "Yohan has had one side of his groin done and that caused a potential weakness in the other side. He will probably be out for eight weeks.

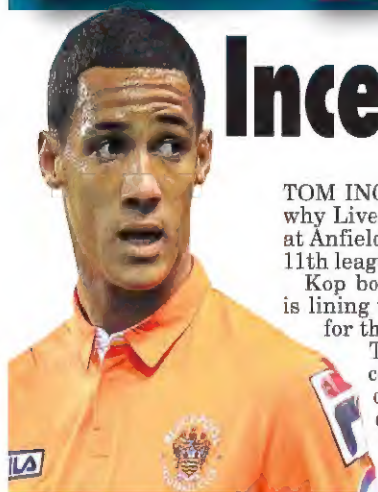

"We are probably looking at February 1 for both players, so we might as well get the bad news out of the way."

LAST NIGHT'S FOOTIE ACTION

Ince proves why he's top for Kop

TOM INCE (left) showed just why Liverpool want him back at Anfield by netting a superb 11th league goal of the season. Kop boss Brendan Rodgers is lining up a £6million move for the Blackpool ace.

There's already been contact between the clubs with a view to a deal being completed before the end of the transfer window.

Ince - who joined

BIRMINGHAM 1

the Seasiders without making a league appearance for the Reds - found the net with a well executed low finish after Curtis Davies had blocked an effort by former Birmingham striker Kevin Phillips.

But it was not enough to earn Blackpool victory, as Davies' first goal of the campaign earned a draw for the struggling Blues.

Although the point stopped the rot, Birmingham have now won just once in six attempts.

They had arrived on the Fylde coast having conceded six goals in two games. And it took Ince just 17 minutes to find the net.

On-loan Aston Villa striker Nathan Delfouneso almost made it 2-0 with a curling shot that Blues keeper Jack Butland did well to tip over the bar.

But Birmingham hit back at the start of the second half when Davies was allowed to rise above the Blackpool defence to nod Wade Elliott's corner into the net.

They went close to nicking a win when Peter Lovenkrands crashed a shot against the underside of the bar. But, to Blackpool's relief, the ball bounced away to safety.

SHEFF WED 1
WATFORD 4

WEDNESDAY were left deep in relegation trouble as the Hornets hoovered up the points with ease.

The Owls have now won just two of their last 17 games and a recent vote of confidence in manager Dave Jones looks as flimsy as their defence.

It seemed like things were looking up for them when Michail Antonio was gifted the opener after three minutes.

But Watford were level after 17 minutes through Fernando Forestieri - who had been booked earlier for diving.

Worse followed for Wednesday when Chris Lines saw his spot-kick, for a foul on Antonio, saved by former Arsenal keeper Manuel Almunia.

And Hornets had a sting in the tail as second-half goals from Alex Geijo, Troy Deeney and Mark Yeates wrapped up the three points in style.

BURNLEY 1

CHARLIE AUSTIN hit his 21st goal of the season to leave Barnsley still searching for their first win in eight games.

Austin opened the scoring for the Clarets after just five minutes.

Barnsley left the Championship's leading scorer unmarked at a corner and the hitman duly nodded home.

If that error was typical of a struggling side, the rest of the half was far from it.

The Tykes dominated and when Marcus Tudgay placed a header beyond Lee Grant shortly before half-time it was just reward.

Sean Dyche made a change at the break and sent his side out with more purpose.

And it almost worked as substitute Danny Ings came closest to breaking the deadlock when he hit the woodwork.

BRIGHTON 2
BRISTOL CITY 0

ALBION secured their 1,000th home league win after Dean Hammond and Andrea Orlandi ended the midfield drought.

No Brighton midfielder had scored this season coming into this clash - but Hammond broke that duck in the fifth minute when he headed home Liam Bridcutt's cross.

And Orlandi added the second 20 minutes later when his floated free-kick was allowed to drift into the City net.

The Robins came close to getting back into the game in the 35th minute when Stephen Pearson struck the bar with a left-foot effort.

And Albion skipper Gordon Greer had to be alert to prevent Neil Danns' shot creeping in.

But Brighton cruised through the second half to provide the perfect response to Saturday's frustrating home draw with Bolton.

ASTON VILLA 1

READING 0

CHRISTIAN BENTEKE'S dramatic late header earned Villa a precious victory as they climbed out of the bottom three.

The Belgian international struck his fifth goal of the campaign with 10 minutes left to earn Paul Lambert's team only their third league victory of the campaign.

It came after Villa had spurned a host of chances in this crunch six-pointer - and after Lambert had once again controversially left Darren Bent out of his squad. While they will feel they have a chance to turn their fortunes around with bottom side QPR to come next, it was another miserable night for the Royals as their search for a first away win continued.

There was controversy before a ball was kicked as Bent again found himself axed from the squad.

There were reports the record signing - who last started for Villa in October - had stormed out to his car to leave the stadium.

But if that was the case he didn't venture far as he was soon visible in the Trinity Road Stand.

Coffin

Having come in for criticism for embarking on a shopping trip when injured for a game with Liverpool last year, there could be no argument that Bent was not behind his team-mates.

But his absence was another nail in the coffin for his Villa career - with a January exit looming.

It was a huge gamble for Lambert for what was arguably his team's biggest match of the season.

Reading threatened first when Jobi McAnuff pick-pocketed Barry Bannan and delivered a low cross.

Brad Guzan's fine stop denied Hal Robson-Kanu and Adam Le Fondre poked wide from close range.

It was a lucky escape for Villa but they responded by creating a golden chance in the 17th minute.

Brett Holman's low cross

Belgian ace delivers as Lambo snubs Bent again found its way through to Benteke 10 yards out but his curling effort lacked power and Adam Federici saved comfortably.

It was the sort of chance you would expect a proven predator like Bent to stick away.

Villa were guilty of missing another sitter when Benteke squared to Andreas Weimann but he blazed over.

Holman then drilled a low shot agonisingly wide after cutting in from the right flank.

There was more frustration for Villa when Ciaran Clark saw a header flash past a post from another quality Bannan cross.

But the deadlock was finally broken with 10 minutes to go when Benteke rose highest to head home Ashley Westwood's corner and seal a vital win.

BECC SPOT ON IN SPEED TRIBUTE

LEEDS 1
LEICESTER 0

LUCIANO BECCHIO made sure Leeds paid a fitting tribute to fallen legend Gary Speed last night.

The anniversary of Speed's tragic death was marked by a resounding round of applause before kick-off – and within 90 seconds Leeds had won a penalty.

Leicester defender Jeff Schlupp needlessly tripped Sam Byram and Argie Becchio blasted in his 12th goal of the season from the spot.

Paul Green could have doubled the lead after 27 minutes with a sweet half-volley from Becchio's through-ball, but Kasper Schmeichel tipped over.

The high-flying Foxes had the better of the rest of the first half with livewire winger Ben Marshall sprinting half the length of the field and forcing Paddy Kenny into a near-post stop.

Marshall also drilled a free-kick into the wall after Alan Tate's trip on Martyn Waghorn inches outside the box.

Marshall's cross forced Leeds into a poor clearance and allowed Waghorn to latch on to the loose ball with a volley which clipped the bar.

Jamie Vardy should have done better just before the break when he pounced after Kenny kept out an Andy King blast but could only fire wide.

After the restart, centre-half Wes Morgan rose well to meet a Waghorn free-kick but could only guide it into Kenny's waiting arms.

Leicester substitute Anthony Knockaert hit a fierce 25-yard shot which Kenny kept out at full stretch.

Leeds sub Michael Brown connected with Becchio's lay-off and curled a shot just wide from 20 yards.

Foxes sub Marko Futacs gave the home fans another scare when he blasted just wide.

Cardiff bashed by Noone's red end

DERBY 1
CARDIFF 1

CARDIFF held out for a point that could prove crucial come next May – after playing 30 minutes with 10 men.

The promotion-chasing Welsh side led through Helder Helguson's early header.

But they were rocked after Craig Noone was dismissed for two yellow cards on the hour.

Theo Robinson equalised moments later, but the league leaders clung on after a rearguard effort.

It was the second successive game where Cardiff had lost a man.

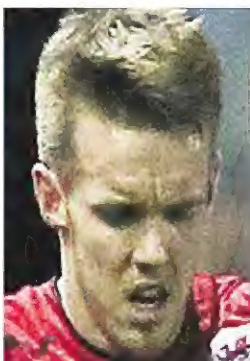

But this was a point gained rather than two lost for Malky Mackay's men.

Derby started the brighter of the two sides but soon fell behind to Helguson's 11th-minute header.

Noone's cross saw Mark Hudson loop a header towards goal and a combination of crossbar and goalkeeper Adam Legzdins saw the ball fall kindly for the Icelandic striker.

Cardiff had Craig Bellamy back following a month out, but he was looking off the pace as Derby dominated.

But all the Rams had to

SENT OFF: Noone

show for their efforts was a Paul Coutts shot that was kept out by Cardiff keeper David Marshall.

The pattern continued after the break, before the game-changing decision that saw Noone dismissed.

Noone collected two bookings in as many minutes from referee Mark Brown to turn the game on its head.

Derby had their tails up and it was no surprise to see Robinson turn home Craig Bryson's pass for a 69th-minute equaliser.

The Rams piled forward as they laid siege to the Cardiff goal.

But Marshall was rarely called into action.

And despite surviving several scares, including Matt Connolly's header off his own line late on, a patched-up Cardiff grabbed the share of the spoils.

SCOTT'S DOUBLE DECKER

MIDDLESBROUGH 3
HUDDERSFIELD 0

TWO-GOAL Scott McDonald helped condemn Town to more Teesside misery.

Huddersfield haven't won there for 26 years and were well beaten thanks to the Aussie ace, who completed the rout with a second close-range finish five minutes from time.

The Terriers came close early on thanks to a thumping 25-yard shot from defender Jack Hunt.

And midfielder Scott Arfield forced a save from Jason Steele with another long-range effort.

But Simon Grayson's men were caught napping in the 28th minute when the ball broke for Lukas Jutkiewicz to fire in a low cross which McDonald bundled home.

McDonald fired across the face of goal and Josh McEachran curled a 20-yard free-kick narrowly wide.

Only a stunning save from Alex Smithies prevented Clarke doubling the lead when he pushed the ball onto the bar and away to safety.

McDonald tried to return the favour for Jutkiewicz after the break, putting his strike partner in on goal.

The skilful targetman showed great control to go past two defenders before firing off a close range shot from a narrow angle that was well saved by Smithies.

Emmanuel Ledesma gave Boro valuable breathing space when he fired home a 25-yard free-kick in the 66th minute.

Only another fine save from the Town keeper prevented a Jutkiewicz header making it three late on, but McDonald wasn't to be denied his second soon after.

'ARRY HALTS LOSING STREAK

HARRY REDKNAPP made an immediate impact as QPR ended a six-game losing run.

The new QPR boss only took his first training session on Monday, but his players were up for the battle as they threw themselves into every tackle against the Black Cats.

They never really looked like beating Sunderland keeper Simon Mignolet, but Redknapp will be pleased with his players' character and fight.

Martin O'Neill must be worried about his own side, who were booed off at the final whistle and hardly created a chance as they extended their dreadful recent record to two wins in 21 league games.

Redknapp's first team selection saw him make three changes from the side that lost at Man United at the weekend, although he stuck with Adel Taarabt even though he had criticised the midfielder's performances during his time at Spurs.

SUNDERLAND 0 QPR 0

Sunderland dropped Jack Colback for the first time this season, although the midfielder was back on the pitch just seven minutes in as Lee Cattermole injured his knee in a tackle with Samba Diakite.

Former Black Cats striker Djibril Cisse had the first chance but could only direct a weak header at Mignolet.

Craig Gardner then drilled a long-range free-kick past the post.

Flashed

But QPR almost claimed the lead when Mignolet tipped Cisse's 12th-minute strike around the post.

Julio Cesar was forced into his first piece of action when he palmed a Carlos Cuellar header over the crossbar shortly after, but Sunderland struggled to carve out chances.

Cisse crashed a 25-yard strike just past the post midway through the first half before Phil Bardsley failed to find the target from distance.

That was a rare chance for O'Neill's side, though, and the hosts would have been behind at the break had Mignolet not made a fine low stop to thwart Jamie Mackie.

Redknapp was forced to his change his keeper at half-time, with Rob Green replacing the injured Cesar, but Sunderland barely tested him.

Rangers continued to dominate possession but Esteban Granero directed his header from Armand Traore's cross much too close to Mignolet.

Stephane M'Bia flashed a long-range strike just past the post on the hour mark, with the home fans becoming increasingly annoyed at the struggles of their team.

Their mood improved slightly when Fletcher met Seb Larsson's corner, but the striker planted his header straight at Green.

And Mignolet kept the scoreline blank late on when he kept out a Shaun Wright-Phillips effort.

IPSWICH 3 N FOREST 1

LOCAL lad Luke Hyam helped fell Forest with his first goal of the season for Ipswich.

The Tractor Boys went ahead after a crucial blunder from keeper Lee Camp and defender Danny Collins.

The pair got in each other's way after a DJ Campbell hopeful punt forward and Guirane N'Daw tucked it away on the half-hour.

Forest levelled after superb work from Billy Sharp and Chris Cohen was finished by Dexter Blackstock for his fifth of the campaign in the 59th minute.

But resolute Ipswich struck back three minutes later when Danny Collins tripped Campbell whose spot-kick was saved by Camp with Hyam following up to finish.

WOLVES 0 MILLWALL 1

ANDY KEOGH returned to haunt his former club as Wolves' miserable run continued.

The Millwall striker fired home 11 minutes from time from Chris Wood's pass to increase the pressure on Stale Solbakken.

The Norwegian has seen his side fail to win in 11 matches and just 18,174 watched this clash – the lowest Molineux league crowd in over five years.

Wood had twice missed great chances to give in-form Millwall the first-half lead.

Wolves had Kevin Doyle's claim for a penalty following Danny Shittu's challenge turned down.

Wolves lost Carl Ikeme to injury before Keogh struck to extend promotion-chasing Millwall's unbeaten run to 12 matches.

CHARLTON 2 PETERBOROUGH 0

RICARDO FULLER'S stunning strike 13 minutes from time helped Charlton make it five matches unbeaten.

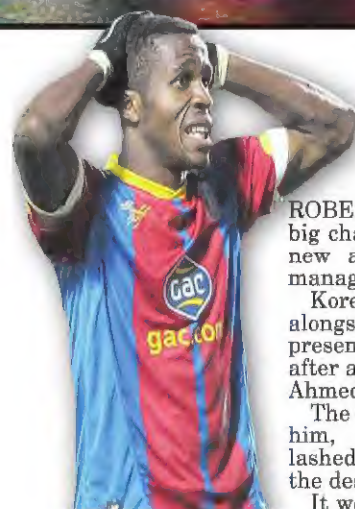

The game was drifting towards a stalemate when the Jamaican unleashed a piledriver from 30 yards that gave Posh keeper Bobby Olejnik no chance.

Charlton bossed the first half and went close through a Yann Kermogant volley inside the opening two minutes.

Bradley Pritchard was unlucky to see his diving header bounce back off the Posh post just after the break.

Posh also had their chances through Lee Tomlin and George Boyd, but out of nowhere Fuller made the breakthrough for the Addicks.

And Kermogant rounded things off in style five minutes from time from sub Danny Green's cross.

KOREN'S OPEN GOAL SHOCKER

ROBERT KOREN fluffed his big chance after being given a new attacking role by Hull manager Steve Bruce.

Koren, pushed forward alongside Sone Aluko, was presented with an open goal after a 25th-minute cross from Ahmed Elmohamady.

The ball sat up perfectly for him, but Koren somehow lashed it high over the bar to the despair of Bruce.

It would have given Hull an

HULL 0 CRYSTAL PALACE 0

interval lead they deserved after outclassing a Palace team sitting second in the table.

Hull, who had lost two of their previous three games, were quickly in control and David Meyler was inches away from turning in a cross.

The chances kept on coming, with Stephen Quinn agonisingly close to a goal with a first-time effort that whipped past the far post.

A cross from Aluko also deserved a sharper reaction from his team-mates, while another Koren shot was blocked, prompting penalty appeals that were rejected.

In contrast, Palace's only threat was a fourth-minute shot from Yannick Bolasie as Hull comfortably dealt with the

The pattern was the same after the break, with Quinn twice close to a breakthrough, while Palace continued to stumble, prompting boss Ian Holloway to send on striker Aaron Wilbraham on the hour.

Palace finally posed a threat in stoppage time when Bolasie and Zaha had chances, but a goal then would have been cruel on Hull.

FEELING BLUE:
Chelsea boss Rafael Benitez (below right) isn't sure Fernando Torres will ever show the kind of devastating form he did at Liverpool

NANDO'S NOT SO TASTY

Even Rafa admits Torres isn't what he used to be

RAFAEL BENITEZ admits he doesn't know if Fernando Torres will EVER recapture his top form at Chelsea.

The Blues boss had insisted he could improve the fortunes of Torres, who he helped become one of the best strikers in the world at Anfield. The striker has flopped since his £50million move to Stamford Bridge, netting a measly 19 goals in 88 games.

By SAM HARRIS

And, having worked with him for almost a week, Benitez says the 28-year-old is a shadow of the player he had at Liverpool.

Three Blues managers have failed to get Torres scoring regularly, each one insisting there was nothing wrong with the forward.

And the man who knows his fellow Spaniard better than any of them admitted yesterday: "He is not exactly the same player now."

Confidence

"He was at maximum level at Liverpool, but I think he can maybe come back."

"How close? I don't know. It depends on the rest of the team. I'm sure he can improve, but the team has to help him."

"The first thing is to give him confidence, instructions on how to do things in a different way, improve him a little bit physically."

"We need to be stronger in defence, regain the ball easier and then we can create chances. That will benefit Torres."

Benitez reckons his striker's lack of form could be due to the wrong kind of training, or the fact he's getting the wrong kind of service.

He added: "Fernando had real pace. It's not because he's getting older or injuries - he has to train in a way that suits him. We will try to find this way."

"The movement he has to do will take some time also. We've been working with him and Oscar to try to find this understanding."

"It will take time, but we know we have to change his movements."
